BRITAIN CAN WIN, ARMY CHIEF SAYS

HOUSE VOTES AGAINST WISH OF GOVERNOR

RIVAL BILL PASSED ON AGRICULTURE APPOINTMENT

Lansing, Jan. 28, (AP)—The house of representatives today adopted the post bill transferring from the governor to the state board of agriculture, governing body of Michigan State college, the authority to appoint the state agricultural commissioner.

Beating back Democrat attempts to revive a rival measure sponsored by Governor Van Wagoner to create a five-member staggered commission to administer the agricultural department, the house Republican majority held its lines nearly intact and sent the Post bill to the senate bearing a 62 to 33 vote of approval.

Veto Anticipated

Reps. Aate Dykstra, of Grand Rapids, and Loomis K. Preston, St. Joseph, were the only Republicans to vote with the Democrats in opposing the measure. Rep. Edward H. Jeffries, Democrat, Detroit, voted with the Republican majority, but unsuccessfully sought permission to change his vote after the total had been announced.

A question was raised in Republican circles as to whether they could muster the 67 vote majority they would need to override a veto by the governor in the event the senate concurred in the bill.

The Republicans rejected at a caucus a request by Governor Van Wagoner that they defer today's scheduled vote on the bill until more conclusive word had been received from agricultural areas as to the wishes of the farmer and ordered an immediate vote.

Republicans Oppose Card

Behind the oratory surrounding action the bill was the governor's desire to appoint Leo V. Card, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for secretary of state, as either agricultural commissioner under a one-man form of administration, or to have the five-member commission appoint Card agricultural director.

Republicans have opposed Card, and expressed a feeling the governor would have difficulty convincing the board of agriculture he was the most logical choice. The board now is composed of four Republican and two Democratic members. Two of the Republican board seats will be at stake in the forthcoming spring election.

The house also adopted and sent to the senate the Warner bill establishing a retirement fund for non-teaching employes of the public schools and normal and teachers' colleges. The fund would be raised by assessing the affected employes at the rate of three per cent of their annual salaries, up to $90 a year.

Lobby Request Tabled

The house ways and means committee released to the floor for debate tomorrow a deficiency bill appropriating $435,452 to pay obligations of the crippled children commission which were rep-

Willkie Weathers London Bomb Raids Minus His Tin Hat

BY EDDY GILMORE

London, Jan. 28, (AP)—Minus tin hat, Wendell L. Willkie plunged cheerfully about London today through four air raids, acting as if nothing out of the ordinary had happened and permitting nothing to disturb his strenuous schedule.

In the first Nazi visitation of the day, and the first he had experienced, he was caught without the steel helmet he had brought from the United States—and he likewise succeeded in entering the house of commons without a gas mask, ordinarily required equipment for all admitted there.

He had just stepped out of St. Paul's cathedral when the day's initial warning sounded. He cocked an ear, smiled and said: "Fine! That's just fine!"

He inspected the bomb damage at St. Paul's and called it "outrageous;" talked with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, conferred with Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer; sat for half an hour in commons listening to debate; had a half-hour's conference with Arthur Cardinal Hinsley, Roman Catholic archbishop of Westminister.

Impressed By Morale

Summing up his impressions, Willkie declared roundly:

"I cannot speak too highly of the way the British people are conducting themselves in this crisis x x x I am particularly impressed with the calm, deliberate courage of everyone. It is all done without the fanfare of trumpets. That's the kind of stuff I admire.

"Commons also has made a great impression on me. The fact that, right in the midst of this critical time, parliament can go on discussing such questions as freedom of the press is a spectacle that is as magnificent as it is refreshing."

(The question before commons was an opposition motion to censure the government for suppressing the Communist newspaper The Daily Worker. This motion was defeated 323 to 6.)

Willkie had tea at the home of Lord and Lady Astor. Tonight he dined privately with Lord Beaverbrook, the minister for aircraft production. Tomorrow he will tour air raid shelters.

BILL TO DEPORT BRIDGES PUSHED

Department of Justice Proceedings May Hold Up Action

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—A bill for the summary deportation of Harry Bridges to Australia was started through congress again today but there was a possibility that further action might be delayed pending the outcome of justice department proceedings against the CIO's west coast director.

The house immigration committee reported the measure. It was passed by the house last year, 329 to 42, but a senate committee supplanted it with a resolution directing the attorney general to look into accusations of Communistic activity by Bridges and determine whether he was deportable under new legislation aimed at aliens who had participated in subversive organizations.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, disclosed last month that he had submitted a report to the attorney general which "confirms that Bridges is a Communist." Bridges replied that the evidence was "faked" and had been "secured by bribery and intimidation."

Attorney General Jackson is expected to order a public hearing soon on the matter.

Son Of Marquette Sheriff Is Killed Sliding In Street

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 28 (AP)—William Treado, 5-year-old son of Sheriff and Mrs. Howard C. Treado, was instantly killed this afternoon when he was struck by a milk truck while sleigh-riding across a street intersection. He suffered a fractured skull.

Two other boys riding sleighs with the Treado boy were not hit by the truck, which was driven by George Fassbender. The driver is not being held by police, who stated that an eye-witness said Fassbender was driving slowly as he approached the intersection.

It was Marquette county's second traffic fatality this year.

GREEKS SMASH FRESH ATTACKS

Heavy Losses Suffered North of Klisura By Duce's Army

(By The Associated Press)

Athens, Jan. 29, (Wednesday)—Greek mountain troops shattered two fresh Italian counter-attacks north of Klisura yesterday aand inflicted "heavy losses" on the Fascists, a Greek government spokesman said early today.

"Our shock troops pushed the enemy from its defense positions and took another 70 prisoners including a captain and considerable war material," he said.

"The day before the Italians used tanks in one of their counter attacks but lost three of them on the spot and a fourth was in flames as it turned and sped back to the rear. In the last few days we have taken at least 100 prisoners including an Alpini major."

The Greek high command reported two Italian planes were shot down.

One person was killed and ten wounded in a Salonika military hospital attacked by Italian aircraft, the ministry of home security reported.

The British air force announced "several direct hits" in a bombing raid Monday on military buildings and stores at the Italian base on Elbasani in central Albania while Greek troops fought the counter-attacking Italians.

Submarine Triton Lost By England

London, Jan. 28, (AP)—The loss of the British submarine Triton was announced tonight by the admiralty.

The communique merely stated that the vessel was overdue and "must be considered lost."

Last April 10 the Triton attacked a convoy of German supply ships off the Norwegian coast, the admiralty announcing at the time that four of her torpedoes had "found their mark."

Nazis Get U.S. Supplies Sold Soviets, Is Claim

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—The possibility arose tonight that American trade with Soviet Russia might be curtailed further after British officials claimed that important military supplies were "leaking" into Germany through Russia.

Russian purchases of cotton in the United States, which amounted to approximately 140,000 bales during the last three months of 1940, appeared to be Britain's chief concern. The British government disclosed that it was seeking through diplomatic conversations here to reduce this traffic.

Secretary of State Hull said the United States government was seeking to determine to what extent American exports might be reaching certain belligerents through other countries. He appeared to regard Russian purchases of cotton and other products in this country as of small military importance, but indicated the government was watching the situation closely.

Hugh Dalton, British minister of economic warfare, told the house of commons in London that Russian purchases in the United States were becoming a matter of concern and that it was hoped "it may be possible to take some steps to reduce this traffic."

He added that there was "little evidence that United States exports to the Soviet are reaching Germany direct but there is ample evidence that the Soviet is exporting Russian goods to Germany and replacing them by imports from the United States."

Viscount Halifax, British ambassador, also expressed the belief during a call at the state department today that considerable amount of materials was reaching Germany through Russia and he said a question that would have to be considered was how to stop this leakage.

Dalton named copper as another product which Russia had been buying in the United States. This recently was brought under the export control system.

RAIDERS AGAIN STRAFE LONDON

Four-Day Respite From Air Attacks Ended; Big Guns Active

(By The Associated Press)

London, Jan. 28 — German bombers ended London's four-day respite from raids with a shower of incendiaries and explosives which caused considerable damage to houses and brought the city's anti-aircraft defenses into vigorous action today.

German long-range guns also renewed shelling across the Dover Strait tonight.

The four alarms in London were the first since last Thursday, but the attacks ended before dark ushered in the ninth night without a raid warning.

Bombs landing in a residential area killed one woman, but otherwise there were no reports of serious casualties.

Raiders were reported elsewhere over England. One swooped within 300 feet of the ground along the Kentish coast and dropped three bombs which demolished a cottage and severely damaged another. The occupants escaped with minor injuries.

Planes were reported to have machine-gunned a train in eastern England and dropped fire bombs and explosives on villages whose inhabitants were said to have been fired upon when they fought the incendiaries. Threshers also were reported machine-gunned.

FASCIST EDITOR RAPS U. S. AIMS

Moves to Establish Air and Naval Bases In Azores Pictured

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK

Rome, Jan. 28 (AP)—Virginio Gayda, the highly-placed Fascist editor, accused the United States today of planning to establish air and naval bases in the Portuguese-owned Azores as a threat to Europe.

While Italy and Germany gave fresh evidence of consolidating plans to beat Britain this year, Gayda said they were paying "much attention to new moves by the United States which are turned toward the Azores."

His editorial, "eyes on the Azores," pointed to the strategic importance of the Azores as a refueling base for ships, a landing place for trans-Atlantic planes and a central point for trans-oceanic telegraph cables.

He said America had been showing a suspicious interest in the island, coveting them as part of her "vast, militaristic, imperial offensive" plan for "permanent armed vigilance over the continent of Europe."

"In reality, therefore," he wrote, "what the North American policy would like to picture as defense against alleged threats by the axis powers is an action of menace and vigilance directed against the entire European continent."

Army Transport Hits Rocks; 3 Lost, 60 Safe

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 28, (AP)—Three seamen tossed from a capsizing lifeboat were reported missing tonight after earlier word that all 60 passengers and crewmen of the grounded army transport Kvichak had reached shore safely.

The U. S. S. gunboat Charleston, flagship of the navy's Alaskan sector, radioed that Rosendo Cacris, Alfred Peralata and William O. Reeves were believed lost.

They disappeared soon after the 1200-ton vessel, carrying Alaskan army base supplies from Seattle, grounded on treacherous rocks of the "inside passage" late last night. Other lifeboats carried the passengers and most of the crew safely ashore despite the darkness and the swirling waters.

Tonight, as heavy seas flooded over the deck of the wrecked ship, Capt. W. W. Williamson and 12 members of his crew remained aboard voluntarily.

The Charleston, meantime, reported it was proceeding to Ketchikan with the passengers, including one woman, and the remaining crewmen.

Earlier the coast guard cutter Nemaha, arriving at the wreck scene—Sisters Rocks, 150 miles south of Prince Ruppert, B. C.—had radioed that all were safe.

Part of the crew had remained aboard during the night while the others and the passengers huddled ashore awaiting rescue craft. A small power boat arrived at the scene soon after daybreak and the gunboat Charleston hove to off shore soon after noon.

FREE FRENCH CAMEL CORPS HELPS BRITAIN

WHOLE OF FASCIST EMPIRE MENACED IN AFRICA

(By The Associated Press)

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 28—A "Free French" camel corps operating from Chad—the northern area of Equatorial Africa—has begun an offensive against the Italians in southwestern Libya, thus opening a third fighting front in an African struggle menacing the whole of the Fascist empire.

This new blow against the Italians was belatedly announced by radio tonight by General Georges Catroux, an associate of General Charles de Gaulle, the supreme commander of all those Frenchmen who rejected the armistice with Germany and have been fighting on as Britain's allies.

Travels By Night

The corps was assembled along the Libyan frontier early this month, he said, and crept slowly across the desert by night, hiding by day, until at last they met and drove out the Italian garrison in the important oasis of Fezzan. The regional capital, Marzouq, was declared to have been raided in a fierce, sudden assault which took the Italian defenders wholly by surprise. The town is 300 miles from the French base in Chad, and lies some 700 miles to the southwest of Derna, Libya, where only today British imperial forces were reported being rapidly reinforced for a general attack.

The third front active during today is 2,000 miles away to the southeast. There, advancing British forces were said to be closing in on the towns of Agordat and Barentu in Italian Eritrea.

Defenders Disorganized

Agordat is an essential rail center some 40 miles within Eritrea, and there and at Barentu, military informants said, the disorganized Italians were preparing to make what stand they could. British ground forces were reported advancing in strength and it appeared to be only a question of a short time before both towns fell.

Still other British troops were declared to be pursuing an Italian column, 3,000 to 4,000 strong, which had abandoned the post of Umm Hagar, near the Eritrean-Ethiopian border, and had taken flight into an area which is infested with Ethiopian "patriots" aiding Britain.

Recapitulating recent operations in east Africa, the British announced the capture of an Italian general—the 17th of that rank to fall into British hands in the whole campaign—and the seizure in the Eritrean sector of an additional hundred prisoners, thus bringing to 1,200 the total taken there to date. The general was not identified.

Van Wagoner Off On New York Trip

Lansing, Jan. 28 (AP)—Governor Van Wagoner left today on a trip to New York, to deliver an address Wednesday night to the American Road Builders association, of which he is a former president.

His staff said he would stop first at Cleveland to visit friends.

BROWN WORKS ON NEW TAXES

Michigan Senator Named Chairman for Complex Task In Congress

Washington, Jan. 28, (AP)—Selection of Senator Prentiss M. Brown today as chairman of a congressional committee to draft new tax legislation placed the Michigan Democrat in the forefront of what promises to be one of this session's most complex tasks.

The committee will figure in the problem of boosting the national debt limit from $49,000,000,000 to a proposed $65,000,000,000 and in an anticipated battle over attempts to place a tax on certain securities heretofore exempted.

In the last congress Brown, then also chairman of a subcommittee, recommended that all tax exemptions on bonds be denied. Today he said he felt sure that congress would approve such a proposal.

Senator Brown said he had obtained data showing that approximately half of all estates of $5,000,000 or more lay in tax-exempt securities of federal, state or municipal governments. He said this represents "a tremendous loss" to government.

Germany Can Send 36,000 Warplanes To Attack England

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—Germany can muster 36,000 fighting planes, including probably a secret new pursuit ship, for an all-out assault on England in the spring, well-informed sources here indicated today.

Reliable information was that the Nazis could put into the air 18,000 fighters and bombers in 31 divisions aggregating 1,200 squadrons and at the same time hold 100 percent replacements for planes and pilots in reserve.

The likelihood that Germany had developed a new pursuit plane secretly to provide an element of surprise in any invasion attempt was seen in the circumstance that Germany has not brought out a new type pursuit plane since 1937.

Targets Concentrated

Another surprise might be the use of torpedo planes against shipping convoys. Germany's brief use of such planes in the past was regarded as quite evidently an experiment.

Germany was estimated to have about a 4 to 1 advantage over Great Britain in the air, based not merely on relative numbers of planes but on all factors contributing to aerial strength. One factor in Britain's favor is her concentration of pursuit planes over a limited area. A factor for Germany is the concentration of targets in England whereas they are comparatively scattered in Germany.

The possibility that gas might be used in an invasion attempt was mentioned as one of the uncertain elements making it difficult to calculate the chances of German success.

'SUNKEN' LINER "SAFE IN PORT"

Empress of Australia Attack Story Called German Trick

(By The Associated Press)

London, Jan. 28—British naval authorities announced tersely today that the big war-converted liner Empress of Australia is "safe in port," and one source suggested that radio messages reporting her torpedoed and shelled might have been "a German trick."

The messages were received last night by the Miami, Fla., station of Tropical Radio, which said they had no way of telling whether they were genuine. Beginning at 10:36 p. m. E.S.T., the messages, over a period of about 20 minutes, gave a staccato account of a torpedo sinking, of boats being lowered, of "deck awash" and of "being shelled again."

They gave the position: "About 200 miles from Dakar" (Senegal, French West Africa).

In less than nine hours the British authorities announced the Empress was "safe in port." They declined to comment in any way on the reports of an attack, and it was noted that the announcement said nothing about the ship having "arrived in port."

Subsequently, unofficial informants said the Empress almost certainly was in port at the time of the alleged attack; that she could not have reached Freetown, the nearest useable British port, in less than nine hours and that it was possible a German ship or shore station, somewhere, had faked the calls in order to trick the British into giving out the Empress' whereabouts.

If this was the design, it failed. The British did not even say what side of the world the Empress was on.

Collapse Of Britain Through Her Naval Losses Is Foreseen

Berlin, Jan. 28, (AP)—Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, commander of the German navy, told dock workers at Bremen today that the German navy thus far has destroyed 6,300,000 tons of British shipping and that submarines have accounted for about two-thirds of this total.

Ships destroyed by the air force were not included in his figures, the admiral said.

He said the British admit that 400,000 tons of their naval vessels have been destroyed and commented, "we know how much they don't say."

Raeder declared that England was losing tonnage at a rate which inevitably must bring about her collapse.

PRESS VETERAN DIES

AMERICAN AID MAIN FACTOR AGAINST NAZIS

MORGENTHAU SAYS ISLES MUST GET HELP OR QUIT

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—In clipped monosyllables, General George C. Marshall today expressed the opinion that Britain could whip Germany with the American aid contemplated under the lease-lend bill, while Secretary Morgenthau declared that unless the bill is passed the British must stop fighting.

The views of the army's chief of staff, expressed to reporters after he had testified at a secret session of the house foreign affairs committee, recalled the testimony given last week by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Lindbergh said that even with the full military assistance of the United States Britain could not hope successfully to invade the continent of Europe, unless Germany collapsed internally.

Amendments Drafted

Another major development was a disclosure by Chairman Bloom (D-N. Y.) of the house foreign affairs committee that Democratic committeemen, in conference with house leaders, had tentatively agreed on four amendments to the lend-lease bill.

He said they would "clearly prohibit" the use of United States naval vessels to convoy materials to belligerents, would limit the life of the president's sweeping powers to two years, would require periodic reports to congress on the administration of the program, and would require him to consult the army chief of staff and the chief of naval operations before taking any step under the proposed statute.

Plane Orders Delayed

Rep. Fish of New York, ranking minority committeeman, announced that seven Republican amendments would be offered, including one to forbid the president to give away any part of the navy, and another to limit the bill to one year.

Morgenthau told the senate foreign relations committee that British orders for 2,000 fighting planes were being held in abeyance because the British lacked enough dollar exchange. He also said that in order to pay for the war equipment already ordered, British citizens had arranged to sell "every bit" of property they own in the United States within 12 months. When Senator Clark (D-Mo.) asked whether this included New York real estate holdings of Lord and Lady Astor, he asserted:

Spring Attack Predicted

Reporters congregated around General Marshall after he emerged from the house hearing. In response to one query, he said all signs indicated that Hitler would make an all-out attempt to invade England this spring and that his opening move would be a stupendous aerial onslaught.

"Do you believe that Great Britain with the aid of the United States could whip Germany?" Marshall aws asked.

"Yes," he said.

"Do you think she could defeat Germany with all aid except manpower?"

"I think so. That certainly is our hope."

Then a reporter asked the spe-

HEPLER TALKS HERE TONIGHT

State Health Engineer to Address Public Meeting

Attendance of 100 or more is anticipated for a meeting of the Delta County Health Committee, open to the public, to be held at 7:45 o'clock tonight at the city hall. John Hepler, director of the state health department bureau of engineering, will speak.

A short business session for presentation of reports will precede the illustrated talk, which will be on "Your Health Guards." Mr. Hepler will discuss the importance in every day life of such matters as proper food, milk, water, sewage, resort and school sanitation regulations, and emphasize the importance of active interest and co-operation of the public in these subjects.

Mrs. A. J. Schmeltzer, president of the county committee, will be chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Hepler has been director of the bureau of engineering since July, 1940, when he succeeded Col. Edward D. Rich, who retired. Except for a brief leave of absence, he has been associated with the state health department since 1919, most of the time as assistant to Col. Rich. In 1936, he organized the bureau of industrial hygiene and in the year before he took his present post, his work centered largely on rural sanitation. He has been a member of the state plumbing board since its organization in 1933.

Walkout Ordered To Hold Up Work On Army Airfield

Dayton, O., Jan. 28 (AP)—A strike tying up work on a $1,550,000 expansion program at Wright Field, the army air corps testing laboratory, was ordered tonight by John Breidenbach, president of the Dayton Building Trades Council.

Breidenbach said he had instructed between 400 and 500 men not to report for work tomorrow morning because a firm he identified as the Pener Installation company of New York imported "non-union men" and was using them on an electrical project.

"We are taking every building trades man off the job," Breidenbach said. These will include, he added, workers employed by other contractors now engaged on various projects at the field.

The union leader, who is vice president of the Ohio Federation of Labor, said he had attempted unsuccessfully to negotiate with officials of the Pener company. Spokesmen for the firm were not available at once for comment. Army officials were silent.

Opposition Grows In Canada Against St. Lawrence Canal

Quebec, Jan. 28 (AP)—Opposition leader Maurice Duplessis told the Quebec legislative assembly today that development of the St. Lawrence waterways project under present world conditions "would constitute a national crime" and would be "a national suicide" and a danger to international peace.

The proposed canalization, Duplessis said, "is not a Canadian project, is of no interest or advantage to Canadians * * * and would constitute unjustifiable expenses."

The leader of the Union Nationale party said the project "would ruin our railways—we would spend millions and millions of dollars to destroy our national railways system which yearly has deficits of many millions."

Governments of Quebec were always against the canalization plan, Duplessis said, because the province had nothing to gain from the project, the province does not need the electricity which would be developed by the project, he said, because now "we have such a surplus of electricity that we can face the present needs and those of the future."

In Washington

(By The Associated Press)

General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, expressed the belief that Britain could whip Germany with American aid, while Secretary Morgenthau told the senate foreign relations committee that unless the lease-lend bill were passed, Britain, Greece and China could not "continue to fight." Democrats on the house foreign affairs committee tentatively agreed on four amendments limiting the power granted to the president.

The house immigration committee approved legislation to to deport Harry Bridges, west coast CIO leader, to Australia.

The possibility arose that United States trade with Russia might be further curtailed as a result of British complaints that supplies were reaching Germany through Siberia.

Wendell Willkie's visit to England aroused speculation that President Roosevelt might ask him to help administer the British aid bill.

Prosecutor Tells Of McCrea Rebuke For Gambling Raid

Detroit, Jan. 28 (AP)—Prosecutor William E. Dowling of Wayne county testified today in the vice conspiracy trial that he had been reprimanded on one occasion by Duncan C. McCrea, his former superior, in the closing of an alleged gambling house.

Dowling, first state witness in the trial of McCrea and 32 others, said the incident took place in January, 1939, when he was an assistant under McCrea. Dowling was returned to the stand today, second day of the trial.

The witness testified he had ordered Sheriff Thomas C. Wilcox to close the establishment. Dowling said he was acting prosecutor at the time, since McCrea was out of the city.

"It had been a rule of McCrea," Dowling said, "that all complaints or anything pertaining to gambling or vice should be referred to Colburn (Harry Colburn, a co-defendant and former chief investigator under McCrea.)

"But McCrea was away, and I decided to act. * * * When McCrea returned he called me in and reprimanded me for disobeying his orders."

Small Plants To Share In U.S. Defense Orders

BY WILLIAM WEATHERSBY

Lansing, Jan. 28 (AP)—Creation of a sub-contract department of the federal office of production management to operate with backing of the federal reserve system was announced today by Francis J. Trecker, technical assistant to defense director, William S. Knudsen.

Speaking at an industrial and labor conference called by Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner, Trecker said the department would seek to spread defense work among small industries by inducing prime contract holders to sublet as much of the work as possible.

Financial aid to small sub-contractors will be provided through federal reserve banks, Trecker said. He announced federal reserve bank officials would meet Feb. 3 in Washington to establish policies for the program.

Trecker urged more than 100 industrialists assembled at the conference meanwhile to seek more prime defense contracts and to let sub-contractors do some of the work "every chance you get."

"See to it that the sub-contractor has enough money to help you," Trecker advised. "Federal aid will be coming along, but it will take a while."

The twelve federal reserve banks will furnish headquarters and personnel for the new department, Trecker said, which will operate under supervision of a three-man committee.

Members of the committee are Robert L. Mehornay, Kansas City, chairman; Trecker, technical adviser, and his brother, Joseph L. Trecker, also of Milwaukee, industrial adviser.

A "dollar a year" executive will head the department's work in each of the federal reserve districts and will employ a technical staff, the speaker asserted. He proposed that small industries seeking defense sub-contracts should report to these staffs the equipment they have available.

Employes of the sub-contracting department will then approach holders of prime contracts and seek to arrange the subletting, Trecker said.

He told the conference more than 50 per cent of the nation's mechanical equipment was either idle or used only eight hours a day.

Defense contracts, he added, have gone to about 13,000 contractors while there are more than 200,000 available industries for defense works.

Governor Van Wagoner said: "The time has come when patriotism must take priority. Not just the patriotism we talk about and have in our hearts. That is important. But beyond that is the 'patriotism' we have in our plant machinery and in the strong backs and skilled hands of our workers. The time has come for all-out action. * * *

"It is now our job to redouble our defense production, if we are to be prepared in time for any eventuality that may arise.

"I tell you in solemn sincerity that your nation and your state, your source of livelihood, your freedom is at stake."

He received pledges of cooperation from numerous industry and labor representatives and named a committee to rush to completion a survey of Michigan's industrial resources.

Members of the committee are John L. Lovett, Detroit, general manager of the Michigan Manufacturers association, chairman; Donald Weeks, Traverse City, and Dr. Harold A. Furlong, of Pontiac, named last week as chairman of the state defense council.

Van Wagoner asserted his "first hand information" led him to believe Michigan would have no serious labor trouble during the defense program.

HOUSE VOTES AGAINST WISH OF GOVERNOR

The committee agreed to release tomorrow another deficiency appropriatoin bill, amended to grant the state labor mediation board $19,000 instead of $16,000; the state dental board $7,500 and the state health department $6,000 to reimburse a fund from which it drew to finance blood tests of selective service registrants.

The committee tabled a request that it add to the bill a $10,000 item to finance a state lobby in behalf of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence river waterway.

APOINTEES APPROVED

Lansing, Jan. 28, (AP)—The senate business committee today recommended confirmation of 13 more of Governor Van Wagoner's appointments at tomorrow's session of the full chamber.

The committee chairman, Senator Joseph A. Baldwin, Republican, Albion, reported favorable action was recommended on the following:

John W. Gibson, of Detroit, as chairman of the department of labor and industry.

Gaylord N. Bebout, Detroit, as state public administrator.

James J. Fenlon, of St. Ignace, Mike C. Doty, of Atlanta, and Louis C. Kingscott, of Kalamazoo, to the international bridge authority.

William J. Norton, of Detroit, to the state hospital commission.

Herbert A. Olson, Ann Arbor; William Hale, Midland; Arthur E. Erickson, Ironwood; Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction; Dean E. L. Anthony of Michigan State college; and Albert D. Champney, of Detroit, to the state planning commission.

Term Policy Sought

Gibson, Kingscott and Olson are "new" appointments, the others having served the administration of former Governor Dickinson.

Baldwin declared he wanted the senate to decide before many more confirmations were discussed whether it wished to "give substance" to laws calling for specific term appointments for some state officials.

He asserted that in recent years term appointments made while the legislature was absent were not submitted to the next legislature by the retiring governor for confirmation.

Baldwin said he wanted the senate to decide whether term appointments were to be continued in force and proposed a closed meeting of the chamber to pass on that policy soon. He hinted such a step might mean the confirmation of some of Dickinson's rival list of appointments, all of which were for specific terms.

The senate passed unanimously and sent to the house legislation to "return" the office of state highway commissioner to the spring partisan ballot, whence it was removed by the legislative oversight. The bill was given immediate effect.

Salary Raise Sought

A joint resolution aimed at restricting the voters' opportunity to amend the constituion was vitally rewritten in committee and reported to the floor today.

Originally the resolution would have provided that constitutional amendments must be adopted by a majority vote of all registered electors. The committee revised it to require a majority of votes cast for all candidates for the office receiving the largest number of voters at the same election. It also tightens regulations concerning circulating of petitions to initiate such amendments.

Senator D. Hale Brake, Republican, Stanton, and Earnest C. Brooks, Democrat, Holland, introduced a bill to divorce the administration of the afflicted children programs from that of crippled children and place the former in the hands of county welfare boards where it would be financed jointly by the counties and the state.

Baldwin proposed to increase the salaries of all state elective officers, except the lieutenant governor, to $7,500 a year by adding to the sums they receive for sitting on the administrative board. The lieutenant governor would be raised to nearly $5,000.

Detroit Policeman Held For Killing

Detroit, Jan. 28. (AP)—Thomas Urquhart, former Detroit policeman, will be brought to trial Feb. 6 on manslaughter charges growing from the Christmas morning shooting of Alexander Rudy.

Recorder's Judge Thomas M. Cotter today set the trial date and released Urquhart on $3,000 bond. The patrolman, charged with being drunk while on duty and recklessly discharging his revolver, was dismissed from the force. Rudy, a dishwasher, was fatally wounded by one of the wild bullets.

Japanese Violate Agreement, Troops Sent To Indo-China

Saigon, French Indo-China, Jan. Jan. 29 (Wednesday) (AP)—Japanese troop transports were reported sighted off the coast south of here today as new Japanese military moves in Indo-China overshadowed the violation of the Thai-Indo-China armistice agreement for which each side blamed the other.

The northern Tonking province Japanese troops occupied the important market town of Haiduong, 35 miles east of capital, Hanoi, and on the road to Haiphong—chief seaport of the region. This occupation was said to violate the September agreement of the Japanese with the Hanoi government which did not provide for a base in Haiduong.

Meanwhile a flotilla of Japanese warships continued to ride at anchor off Cap Saint Jacques with the troop transports reported to be steaming to join them.

FAIR VOUCHERS ARE REJECTED

Budget Chief Won't Pay Traveling Expenses of Dr. Snow

Lansing, Jan. 28 (AP) — State Budget Director Leo J. Nowicki said today he had rejected expense vouchers for $1,515 worth of travel submitted by Dr. Linwood Snow, Northville, retiring manager of the Michigan State Fair.

Former Budget Director Gus T. Hartman previously had rejected the vouchers.

Nowicki wrote Elmer A. Beamerr, state commissioner of agriculture and chairman of the board of managers of the state fair, that the vouchers covered the period from February, 1939, through part of 1940. He added that $926 worth of the vouchers were for travel from Dr. Snow's home to the fairgrounds in Detroit.

"I question whether the state is obligated to reimburse Dr. Snow for travel between his home and the state fair office," Nowicki said. He also objected that the vouchers had not been cleared on a monthly basis.

Naval Recruiter To Come Here Feb. 17

A. J. McNulty, U. S. Navy recruiting officer from the Green Bay station, will be in Escanaba at the postoffice Monday, February 17 to accept applications for admittance into the navy.

Anyone interested in making application at that time is urged to do so in the morning, if possible, as several hours are required to complete the necessary papers and examination. Applicants should bring their birth certificates or some other legal proof of the date of birth.

Applications for the Naval Air Corps are now being accepted also in all navy recruiting stations. The age requirements for the air corps is 20 to 27.

Age requirements for the general service is 17 to 31. Applicants between the age of 17 and 18 are enlisted to serve until they are 21 years old.

The recruiter will be in Munising Wednesday, February 19, in Newberry Thursday, February 20 and in Manistique Saturday, February 22.

Bridge Collapses At Montezuma, Ind.; Three Cars Escape

Montezuma, Ind., Jan. 28, (AP)—Two automobiles and a truck were on a Wabash river bridge when a 200-foot span collapsed today but none of their occupants was hurt although the truck was damaged.

The truck, owned by the Crawford Trucking company of San Antonio, Tex., jolted from the collapsing span just as it fell into the river. In the cab were Mack McAllister, driver, and John Oates, assistant. They were enroute to Cleveland with a cargo.

The 700-foot bridge was built in 1892. The cause of the collapse was unknown. State highway engineers came here from Crawfordsville to investigate.

Only one of the longer spans of the four-span structure collapsed. The two passenger cars were on other parts of the bridge when it fell.

GAS LEAK FATAL

Detroit, Jan. 28. (AP)—Alex Bern, 21, overcome by gas along with two other members of his family while they slept, died in Receiving hospital today. A brother, Robert, 18, and his father, Benjamin, were recovering. Firemen said a gas heater without a vent apparently was responsible.

JUMP RECORD BROKEN

Ypsilanti, Mich., Jan. 27 (AP)—Ray Peterson, freshman from Detroit, today broke his own Michigan Normal college high jump record by clearing the bar at 6 feet, 4 1-2 inches in an intramural meet.

Only one man in 20 reaches a height of six feet or more.

cific question whether the general believed that Britain could beat Germany with the aid envisioned if the lease-lend bill goes through.

"Yes," was the staccato reply.

Crucial Period Ahead

The expected great German offensive probably will start in April or May, Marshall said. Despite his opinion that Britain would win out eventually with American aid, he emphasized that the present situation was "serious."

"I think it's one of the most critical periods in the history of the world," he said.

Asserting that Germany had never yet brought her full aerial power to bear, he said that only by faster production could the United States send more aircraft to the beleaguered island. As to whether any equipment now owned by the American armed forces could be shipped abroad, he said "we have need for all the modern equipment that has been delivered to us."

In response to more questions he said that the United States army air force is adequate to hold off an enemy, under circumstances as they exist "at the present moment," but if Britain should fall in the immediate future it would be "insufficient."

Cash Runs Out

Turning again to the prospects of a German attempt to invade England, he said the establishment of a bridgehead across the English channel would be a terrifically dangerous undertaking, requiring that the Germans first get complete control of the air.

"The British have a very gallant spirit, a splendid air corps and the advantage of position across the channel," the general said.

"They're fighters, they're stubborn. All the material in the world doesn't get you anywhere unless you have that. Their morale is high and they are quite confident, although they are worried about the shipping problem."

Morgenthau said that unless congress passes the lease-lend bill "there is nothing for England to do but stop fighting."

The war equipment which Great Britain has already ordered from American manufacturers will end her ability to pay cash in this country, he said, and if the flow of fighting materials is to continue, some new formula must be worked out. The lease-lend measure, he added, was the best formula that has been suggested.

"The decision rests with the congress of the United States," he said, "whether Great Britain, Greece and China continue to fight."

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 28 (AP)—Fred Snite, Jr., the famous self-styled "boiler kid," attended his wife's 26th birthday party at the exclusive Surf tonight and participated in all of the festivity except the dancing.

Encased in the metal respirator in which he has lived since being stricken with infantile paralysis in 1936, Snite enjoyed a slice of the red and white cake, drank a champagne cocktail and ate caviar.

Norwegian Workers Shipped To Germany

Stockholm, Jan. 28, (AP)—One hundred Norwegian prisoners sentenced by German war courts for political offenses have been sent to Germany and more are to follow soon, it was reported from Oslo tonight.

Shipment of a trainload of Norwegian workers to Germany was postponed last Thursday because of "technical reasons." The real reason, according to Oslo reports, was that German enlistment of workers failed. Now new methods are to be introduced in an effort to obtain 5,000 Norwegian workers for Germany before April.

A broadcast from the Karl Johans theater in Oslo yesterday was broken off when demonstrations occurred in the theater. The radio stations remained silent 25 minutes without offering any explanation.

ARMY EXPANDS PILOT TRAINING

Course At Wright Field Stresses Latest War Tactics

Dayton, O. (UP)—Recognizing the growing importance of substratosphere flying modern warfare, the army air corps has established a school at Wright Field to instruct officers in technique of high-altitude flight. The one-week school is conducted by the Wright Field aero medical research laboratory under the direction of Capt. Otis O. Benson, Jr., chief of the laboratory.

Thirty officers from tactical and training centers of the air corps formed the first class and three other classes will be offered in succeding weeks to other groups of 30 officers each. At the end of the training, the 120 officers will go back to their stations and serve as instructors to pilots, flying cadets and other flying personnel in the technique of high-altitude flight.

Use Oxygen Equipment

The school, with emphasis upon the use of oxygen equipment, is the first of its kind to be conducted by the army air corps.

Wright Field officers said that observations from the European war indictaed a trend toward the upper levels of the air by bombers and interceptor planes which must fight them.

As a result of the European experience, instructions in the use of oxygen equipment and in military aerial tactics at high altitudes are expected to become a part of routine air corps training within a short time.

Included in the special "teacher training" here are demonstrations with a 40-foot altitude pressure chamber. The effects of high altitude flight can be reproduced by a process which reduces the density of air within the chamber to that of any desired altitude.

Go Up 38,000 Feet

These experiments are climaxed by a reproduction of an ascension to a height of 38,000 feet. Members of the classes are subjects and each is equipped with oxygen masks and oxygen supply equipment.

The visiting officers also go up in groups of ten in a big army bomber to altitudes of around 30,000 feet for mass tests of the new oxygen equipment in actual substratosphere flight.

On the ground, lectures are delivered by Capt. Benson and other officers on such subjects as parachute escape at high altitude, altitude sickness and air sickness, pilot fatigue, physical characteristics of the atmosphere and physiological effects on the human body.

Capt. B. S. Kelsey, Wright Field test pilot and engineer who returned recently from assignment to London to observe actual air battles, reviews existing information on high altitude operations.

RAILROAD QUIZ

What states lead in railway mileage?

The ten states having the greatest railway mileage are: Texas, with 16,473 miles; Illinois, with 12,045 miles; Pennsylvania, with 10,617 miles; Iowa, with 9,082 miles; Kansas, with 8,667 miles; Ohio with 8,518 miles; Minnesota ,with 8,463 miles; California, with 7,970 miles; New York, with 7,824 miles; and Michigan, with 7,352 miles. These figures are as of December 31, 1938, and do not include switching and terminal companies.

TRACK

What is the right-of-way?

The right-of-way is the strip of land, of varying widths, upon which the railroad and its facilities are built. It is wide enough to provide for tracks,, drainage, signals, bridge abutments, telegraph and telephone lines, sidings, buildings and other needs.

What is a railroad cut?

When the right-of-way of a railroad is cut through a hill, knoll or slope to provide a roadway, the excavation is called a cut.

What is a railroad embankment?

A solid bank of earth, rock or other material built above the natural ground surface to form the roadbed of the railroad is called an embankment or fill.

What is ballast?

Ballast is material such as gravel, crushed rock and cinders, placed on the roadbed to drain water away from the ties, to spread the load over softer subgrade and provide an ,even bearing for the ties, to hold ties more firmly in place and to check the growth of grass and weeds. Ballasting improves drainage, lessens dust, reduces weeding and maintenance problems, adds to the stability of the road, and makes a smoother riding track.

What is meant by the bonding of rails?

A rail bond is an electrical conductor for bridging the joints between rails.

What is "continuous rail"?

Rails of standard length which are welded together at the ends to form a single rail hundreds or thousands of feet in length are known as "continuous rail." Among the advantages claimed for continuous rail over standard length rail are a smoother track, longer service life, reduced maintenance cost and greater safety.

What is the longest continuous rail now in actual service?

The longest continuous rail in service in 1940 is 7,700 feet in length, in the track of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, near Schenectady, New York.

What is the cost of steel rails?

New steel rails laid in replacements by the railroads in 1939 cost an average of $40.00 a ton at the rolling mills. Transportation expense, storage costs, loading and unloading costs and the cost of installation in track are additional.

How much rail is installed annually in the railroads of the United States?

Approximately 2,000,000 gross tons of steel rails, sufficient to build a track 10,000 miles long, are normally laid annually in replacements in the railroads of this country.

County Board Takes On New Life --- 11 In Cells

The county jail which late Monday had but three inmates had a spurt of business yesterday which by 6 p. m. had boosted the number of boarders to 11. Four were being held on larceny charges, one was sentenced for having venison out of season, two were in for disorderly conduct and another for having defective automobile brakes.

Merill Johnivan, 19, of 207 North Tenth street, and Harold LaFond, 19, of 224 Stephenson avenue, will be charged with larceny today, Sheriff William E. Miron said, in connection with alleged theft of farm implements at the untenanted farm of Victor Olson, at the Bark River road and M-35.

They Call the Sheriff

They were arrested late yesterday afternoon after being traced by the license number of a car which neighbors said they saw carrying articles away from the Olson property. The car was parked near an Escanaba junk yard, when Mr. Olson and his son, Melvin, spotted it.

Melvin detained the boys while his father went to call the sheriff two blocks away.

A search at the boys' residences failed to locate the stolen property, but then one of them told the sheriff that it could be found at a residence at Fifth avenue south and Eleventh street. Two cultivating machines, some tractor parts and other impleimplements and iron taken from the Olson place, were found on a four wheel trailer in the yard there. George Campbell lives there, the sheriff said.

This same sort of trailer was used by those who took the iron, neighbors reported.

Ernest Lequia, 48, and Thomas Servant of North Escanaba were both arrested by police yesterday on warrants in connection with two alleged thefts. Both were arraigned, both pleaded innocent and both will be brought before Justice of the Peace H. E. Ranguette today for hearings.

Lequia is charged with having stolen $17 Monday night and Servant was charged in a warrant signed by Shirley Denison, 501 First avenue north, with theft of $6, Saturday night.

Jacob Pellinen, 59, of Rock, was brought to jail late Monday to serve 30 days in lieu of a $50 fine and costs on a charge of possession of illegal venison following a hearing before Justice of the Peace Alger Strom of Gladstone. He was arrested Monday by Conservation Officer Allan Tweedy, who said Pellinen was carrying illegal deer meat in a sack when he accosted him in the woods near Rock. Further investigation revealed a doe and a fawn hanging on trees nearby, the officer stated.

Five day sentences were ordered by Justice of the Peace George W. Carr for two men charged with being disorderly and Rudy Mathieson of Escanaba was given a three day sentence after being arrested by Manistique state police for driving a car with defective brakes.

Also yesterday the case of the great poliomyelitis contribution theft—from the counter of a local restaurant—was solved. Two youngsters, one 13, the other 14, were picked up by police. They hadn't made a full confession, but one of them admitted on questioning, "We tore the box up." It was a cardboard container which had about $2 worth of dimes in it, contributed for a polio fund.

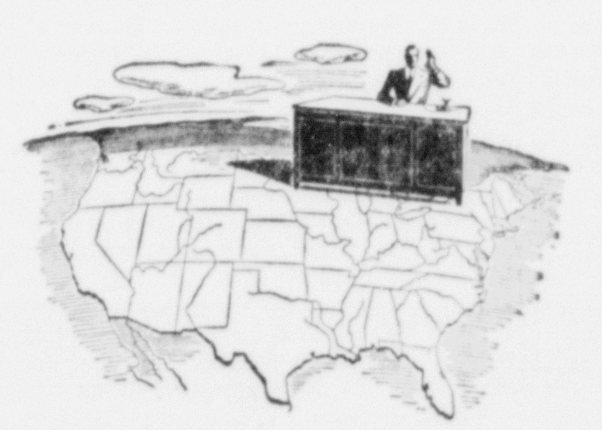
"Operator, give me AMERICA 21,830,000"



Nation-wide telephone communication is a mighty asset to the country's program of defense. Every city, village, hamlet and rural area is closely linked with every other by America's 21,830,000 connecting telephones. In a matter of minutes a Michigan manufacturer, working on defense orders, can speak directly with his suppliers in any part of the country. That is a single example of the service rendered by the telephone industry, thousands of times daily, in this period of national emergency.

Steel Leads All

IT is encouraging to encounter definite figures proving that at least one of our vital national industries, is making good at the job in providing for national defense. In recent months, as a people, we have become accustomed to reading almost daily reports of this industry and that industry falling behind its schedule, because of labor disturbances, lack of material and various apparently legitimate excuses, hindering the belated national effort to arm America and furnish aid to Europe. But the greatest and most vital national industry, necessary to the building of an adequate defense, is the steel and iron industry, and figures have just been made public showing that production in that industry has now reached the highest peak in all history. Apparently the steel companies and the employes of those companies are taking their job most seriously and employers and employes are working together, as never before, to achieve an outstanding record.

Last week, figures made public on Monday, showed that the industry operated at 97.1 per cent of its total capacity and the promise was made that throttles will be opened a little wider this week. For the year a total of 84,148,000 tons of open earth, Bessemer and electric furnace steel was produced, against the previous high annual record for the industry of about eighty-two million tons.

This record output of the nation's apparently one smooth running vital industry, translated into local significance, can only mean a bumper season in 1941 for the mining regions of the upper peninsula and the ore shipping docks of Escanaba and other upper lake ports.

Tourist Bill Passes

THE state senate has approved the Bishop bill providing for a $400,000 appropriation to advertise Michigan's recreational attractions for the next two years. The measure now goes to the house.

Under the provisions of the measure, $200,000 would be set aside for each year's advertising campaign. The sum of $25,000 would go annually to each of the state's four tourist and resort associations; $80,000 for an all-state advertising campaign; and the remaining $20,000 would be used for publicizing the state's agricultural products on a matching basis.

There was some debate on the proposal. Some critics expressed the belief that the increase in the fund from $125,000 to $200,000 yearly set a bad precedent for the legislature's contemplated economy program, while one senator attacked the bill as "the subsidization of private industry."

Advertising is now being done by virtually every state in the Union and also by many cities bidding for the tourist business. It is generally accepted as being good business for it brings benefits to many lines of industry. Communities in the northern cut-over districts of Michigan, struggling for their existence through the development of the new recreational industry, are particularly benefited.

Tourist advertising answers the criticism of the economy-minded in that it is an investment that brings appreciable returns to the state. A recent report shows that traffic across the Straits of Mackinac has increased from 10,350 vehicles in 1923 to 107,516 in 1928, 206,087 in 1936, and 296,762 in 1940.

This is a good barometer of the boom in tourist travel in Michigan, all of which means more gasoline taxes, sales taxes and other revenues for the state. Quite likely, this advertising pays for itself with the revenue that it brings directly into the state treasury.

Ski With Safety

UPPER PENINSULA newspapers are noting that skiing accidents are much too numerous this winter, and as a remedy are recommending instruction in controlled skiing and better supervision over the hills to prevent rowdyism and carelessness.

The Escanaba Daily Press early recognized the need for safety education in skiing, and in order to do its bit for the sport engaged the services of Joseph Maurin, professional ski instructor. The Daily Press has been sponsoring ski schools at Escanaba, Munising, Gladstone and Manistique, at which skiers are given free lessons in the art of controlled or safe skiing.

Maurin is now conducting the school at Manistique, and will divide the final week between Escanaba and Gladstone. The Press issues a cordial invitation to everyone to take advantage of the opportunity to learn how to ski with safety.

It Has Teeth

SPOILSMEN politicians are finding that the new civil service law, which was imbedded into the state constitution by the vote of the people, has real teeth in it. It is not like the law, previously enacted by the legislature, that could be ripped to pieces by the lawmakers, who wanted to play that kind of politics.

The 1939 legislature adopted the "ripper act", which removed about half of the state personnel from the merit system classification. In addition, an effort was made to starve out civil service by reducing the funds needed for its administration. The constitutional amendment, however, makes specific provision that one per cent of the state payroll shall be aside for administration expenses.

The spoilsmen made a few forays at the opening the year in an effort to test the strength of the new civil service law. They found it impregnable. And now official Lansing has resigned itself to the new set-up.

At last, civil service is going to be given a real opportunity to show what it can do for the taxpayers of Michigan.

Persistency Counts

THE Escanaba police department has established a good record for persistency in its enforcement of the one-hour parking limit on Ludington street during the daytime period.

Once put into effect, the parking regulation has been strictly enforced daily. One officer has been assigned to the task, and his job is to methodically make the rounds of both sides of Ludington street to see that the ruling is observed. The public has become accustomed to it, and one never hears a complaint. In fact, there are expressions of satisfaction for now shoppers are able to find a parking place with much less difficulty.

The department recently assigned two police cars to cruise about the city to watch for other traffic violations, such as running through arterial stops and reckless driving. It is a practice that should keep many motorists from becoming careless in their driving habits. If continued with the same persistency as has been done with the parking regulation, Escanaba should show great improvement in its traffic safety record.

THE LINDBERGH CASE
(Christian Science Monitor)

The opponents of effective aid to Britain could not have called a witness who would get a better hearing than Colonel Linghergh. He has been the American hero, beloved for his clean courage, respected for his independence. On the question of a possible air attack on the United States he may qualify as an expert. And against those who talk of cross-ocean bombing as being a serious early peril he has a strong case. At the present stage of air power such raids could be unpleasant but could furnish no basis for invasion. The real case for awakening America should not be weakened by bombing scares.

Unfortunately Colonel Lindbergh's testimony may be accepted in the fields where he is not an expert. On questions of economics, international politics, naval strategy, or cultural and moral history, his views are merely those of an intelligent layman. Indeed, his failure to make any moral distinctions between democratic Britain—today more than ever the home of freedom, gallantly defending herself — and Nazi Germany — today the agent of cruelty, treachery, intolerance, terrorism, brutal oppressor of a dozen small countries—utterly disqualifies him on the fundamental issue in the world struggle of this hour.

Somewhat mechanistically minded the Colonel appears to have been captured by the mechanical efficiency and organizing genius of the German people. Potential German power should not be complacently underestimated. But recognition of it should spur the necessary effort to meet it and overcome it so long as it is driven by an evil purpose. It is defeatism which considers that mechanistic might is the wave of the future and fails to see that moral might such as the British, and Greeks, the Finns and the Chinese have displayed really owns the future and must hold the reins of progress.

In the fields of economics and politics the Lindbergh testimony is palpably incompetent. The assumption that a peace could be made which would give tolerable freedom to enslaved countries of Europe or anything except Hitler's discredited word as guarantee against a new and greater outbreak of gangsterism has been exploded by the Berlin press' own rejection of Senator Wheeler's similar peace plans.

The claim that because Ameerica has found some sort of basis for living with Soviet Russia it could be comfortable with a triumphant Triple Axis displays an ignorance of political and strategic realities which the instincts of most Americans condemn. Is expansionist, coloninzing Germany no different from hermit Russia? Is rich, industrally powerful Germany to be compared with poverty-stricken Russia, still struggling out of a peasant economy?

Could Germany, master of the gates to the Atlantic, dominating Africa and allied with Japan in the Pacific, be regarded just the same by American naval power as Japan-bordered Russia—if Britannia no longer ruled the waves?

Can a Nazi victory be contemplated so complacently either in its moral, political or economic effects The economic war that the totalitarian States have been waging—and for which the shortsighted trade policies of Briain and America must bear much blame—would make the United States an island in a barter - dominated world, run for the advantage of the Triple Axis.

Any economic life except that of a hermit would be on totalitarian terms. South America could be dominated economically, could be soon forced to adopt totalitarian regimes and grant air and naval bases to Germany and Japan. With such support what a fifth column there would be! Could Colonel Lindbergh live happily in that kind of world?

For most Americans, to ask the question is to answer it. And to tell them fundamentally what they must do about active support of democratic power in the world—now.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington — The House will pass the lend-lease bill by a decisive majority and without any major curtailment of the wide powers it grants the President, but the measure will be amended in three respects:

(1) There will be a fixed limit on its duration; (2) the President will be required to report to Congress, every three months, what has been done under the act; and (3) convoying of supply ships will be expressly prohibited.

Privately, the Administration would be glad to accept any time limit so long as it is expressed in general terms, such as for the "duration of the national emergency." But it's doubtful whether that can be put over. Sentiment is strong in the House for restricting the law to a specific period of time.

The Republicans, most of whom are opposed to the bill, want to hold down its operation to one year. The Democrats are for a minimum of two years, and they will have the votes to decide the matter.

Sentiment for the convoy ban is overwhelming. Many congressmen are insisting on it as the price of their support. They are telling leaders the ban is necessary to allay war fears in their district. They admit Roosevelt has stated repeatedly that he has no intention of convoying ships, but the boys insist that it be put down in writing.

This is particularly true of the small group of Republicans who otherwise favor the bill. They are demanding the amendment for their protection.

The GOP, incidentally, is in a tough spot. The overwhelming majority is against the bill, but afraid such a line-up will hang an appeasement label on the Republican Party. That is why there will be no whips cracked to make the boys vote.

—HOUSE FIRST—

Some of the Democratic House leaders would have preferred to let the Senate take the bill first, believing that would save time on amendments in the end. But the White House feared a protracted Senate battle and a delay that would have an unfavorable psychological effect. Quick action by the speedier House would give the bill a stronger position both in the Senate and with the public.

The Administration can thank three Southerners for getting the bill through the public hearings and Foreign Affairs Committee with a minimum of mauling. They are Representatives Luther Johnson, level-headed, veteran Texan; James P. Richards of South Carolina, and Wirt Courtney of Tennessee. They carried the ball when the going got tough and without any grandstanding, did a very smooth job of it.

Note—Isolationist intimates of Senator Burt Wheeler are hinting that he will spring a big senation during the Senate debate on the bill. The intimation is that it has to do with the peace efforts of William R. Davis, who bartered Mexican oil to the Nazis and recently denied he was a financial backer of Verne Marshall's No Foreign Wars Committee.

—DEANNA COMES TO WASHINGTON—

Lights are burning late and brows are furrowed over the problems of the nation, but those problems were put aside when Deanna Durbin came to Washington.

When she arrived as one of the Birthday Ball celebrities, some of the busiest and most important people in the Capital took time off to welcome her.

Plans for the calls were made in advance by a magazine representative. He started timidly, reluctant to intrude on the mighty. He asked J. Edgar Hoover if he would receive the lady, and if, perhaps, he would be willing to pose taking her finger-prints. Without hesitation, the G-Man said he would be delighted.

Mrs. Caraway was asked if she could lay aside the business of the Senate long enough to ride with Deanna in the little subway car from the Senate Office Building to the Capitol. Mrs. Caraway consented.

Vice President Wallace was asked if he would receive Miss Durbin in his suite behind the Senate Chamber. Henry sent word that Deanna could have the right of way with him.

So it was, all over town—Mrs. Roosevelt, General Marshall, Secretary Knox, Justice Murphy, Congressman Costello of Hollywood—opened doors that many a heavy shoulder had pushed against in vain; all for a lass with a sweet face and a singing voice.

—GUNNING FOR NLRA—

The undercover drive to junk the Walsh-Healey act isn't the only anti-labor plan that naval brasshats have up their sleeves. They also are going after the National Labor Relations Act.

It's a closely guarded secret, but the brasshats are preparing a bill which, if enacted, would have the effect of suspending the collective bargaining guarantee of the Wagner act and striking a crushing blow at labor unions.

Crux of the scheme is a provision requiring all concerns, before they can obtain a government contract, to secure a no-strike guarantee from a majority of their employees. If disputes do arise later, they would have to be submitted to compulsory government arbitration.

Neither the company nor the workers would have any voice in the settlement and both would be bound by the arbitrators' decision. U. S. organized labor has long opposed compulsory arbitration, on the ground that it would destroy independent unionism.

Answers To Questions

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Escanaba Daily Press Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. Please enclose three (3) cents for reply.

Q. How many war prisoners are there in Canada? C. S. T.

A. There are over 14,000 war prisoners interned in Canadian camps. Over 11,000 of these were sent from England.

Q. What are fanner bees? W. G. R.

A. They are worker bees which ventilate the hives by vibrating their wings. Edwin Way Teale in his book "The Golden Throng" says that their wings beat at the rate of 11,400 strokes a minute.

Q. Was Stephen Foster ever married? C. M. H.

A. The composer married Jane McDowell, the daughter of a Pittsburgh physician.

Q. Why are railway passenger cars called coaches? G. D. E.

A. The first cars were built in the style of coaches. Coaches took the name from Kocs, Hungary, where they were first made.

Q. Please give the origin of Mardi Gras at New Orleans. W. J. C.

A. The carnival season of Mardi Gras was introduced into America by the French colonies, and celebrations are recorded among the activities of the soldiers at Ft. Louis de la Louisiane (1702-10) on the first site of Mobile, Alabama. Similar festivities were observed in New Orleans from the time of its foundation. It was not until 1857, however, that a group of former residents of Mobile, Alabama, produced the first parade with floats at New Orleans.

Q. What is a chronograph watch? O. B.

A. A chronograph watch is a combination of a regular pocket watch and a stop watch.

Q. Where did Carlotta, Empress of Mexico, spend her last days? T. S. A.

A. After the end of the empire and the execution of her husband she became totally insane. She was taken at first to the Chateau of Laeken, and afterward to the Chateau de Bouchoute, near Brussels, Belgium, where she lived in seclusion until her death on January 19, 1927.

Q. How many people attended the unveiling of the Statute of Liberty? D. J. R.

A. The statue was unveiled on October 28, 1886, in the presence of 1,000,000 people.

Q. What are the full titles of the Pope? H. T. P.

A. His Holiness the Pope is the Bishop of Rome, Vicar of Jesus Christ, Successor of St. Peter, the Prince of the Apostles, Supreme Pontiff of the Universal Church, Patriarch of the West, Primate of Italy, Archbishop and Metropolitan of the Roman Province, Sovereign of the temporal dominions of the Holy Roman Church, and Sovereign of Vatican City.

Q. Please give some information on beacon lights in aviation. G. F. A.

A. Beacon lights are revolving, high-powered lights which turn at the rate of 8 revolutions per minute. They are placed along civil airways at distances of approximately ten miles. These lights are maintained by the Civil Aeronautics Authority as a Government aid to aerial navigation.

Q. What are the most famous waltzes? J. J.

A. There are probably none that excel "The Blue Danube" by Johann Strauss; "Invitation to the Dance" by Von Weber; "Waltz in A Flat" by Brahms; and "E Minor Waltz" by Chopin.

Q. What is Greek fire? L. S. K.

A. It was an inflammable liquid first used by the Greeks in defense of Constantinople in 668 A. D. It is believed to have consisted of a mixture of sulphur, naphtha, and quicklime.

Q. What President wrote his own epitaph? J. B. R.

A. Thomas Jefferson wrote the following epitaph which is inscribed on his tomb: "Here was buried Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of American Independence, of the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom, and Father of the University of Virginia."

Q. Who was the first graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point? A. C. H.

A. Joseph G. Swift was West Point's first graduate. Swift entered the Army in 1800 as a cadet and received his diploma only a few months after the Military Academy opened in 1802.

Hollywood Column

Hollywood—Well, Bette Davis finally got that comedy.

Being considerably broader than it is high, the comedy may not be quite what she was hoping for; and yet it's a cinch "The Bride Came C. O. D." will provide plenty of relief from her long series of weighty roles. As a change in dramatic diet, it also should do something for Mr. J. Cagney, who these days is chasing Miss Davis over the dunes of Death Valley with a hypotheticl slapstick.

She is the willful daughter of a wealthy oil operator, and he is an aviator whom papa hires to break up an intended elopement with an aerial kidnaping. In the course of this adventure they make a forced landing in a desert, and much of the action of the picture takes place while they are stranded there.

So the Brothers Warner hired a big plane and ferried a bunch of correspondents and photographers to the location. It was an enlightening experience, not only to watch Miss Davis push Mr. C. into a patch of cactus but to see how the movie business deals with nature in one of her rawest and grandest moods.

IMPORTED FULLER'S EARTH

Almost 100 people, fleets of trucks and limousines, a tractor and six airplanes are required to film scenes in which only a few players appear. One ship is poised, tail in air and engine in the sand, where the two stars are supposed to have cracked up. Another plane, piloted by famed Paul Mantz, hops back and forth to Hollywood with film and emergency supplies. The other day Mantz dashed in with 25 pounds of Fuller's earth, which was carefully mixed with the native sand so it would look better when blown around by wind machines. After all this had been done somebody learned that the biggest Fuller's earth mine in the country is only a few miles from the location site.

For some of the shots, the sand in the foreground didn't look quite right to the cinematographer, so Mantz brought in a sack of powdered burnt umber, which was mixed with water and sprayed around the desert. They also decided to remodel some of the dunes, and that's where the tractor and bulldozer are coming in handy. First it leveled off the top of the sand hill where they're working. Then, for the sake of composition, an adjoining hill was completely removed. Still another mound was lowered about eight feet in order better to film a sunrise.

World Affairs Reviewed

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—One of the things which observers are unable to understand is why Hitler's threat to annex the small principality of Liechtenstein has not been carried out. It has been two years since the German leader gave indication that he would take over the tiny country if for no other reason than to eliminate the possibility of its becoming a sanctuary for those who attempted to escape Nazi persecution. The fact that Liechtenstein borders on former Austria makes the failure of Hitler's threat the more difficult to understand.

The principality of Liechtenstein is the fourth smallest independent state in the world. It seceded from the Holy Roman Empire in 1806, and has held out for independence ever since, although its total area of 65 square miles is less than that of the District of Columbia. Austria was formerly the big brother of this baby nation, but since the first World War, Liechtenstein has been using Swiss currency, Swiss customs, union privileges, and Swiss facilities for postal, telegraph, and telephone service.

This principality has a reigning family that dates back to the twelfth century. The people number a few more than 10,000, and are engaged largely in agriculture, pottery, and leather goods industries. In the minds of novelists and movie scenario writers, Liechtenstein has been the prototype of the vaguely designated settings of many a gallant tale.

Of the three map spots smaller than Liechtenstein, the newest and smallest of all is Vatican City, a walled area of about 110 acres entirely surrounded by the city of Rome. It came into being with the signing of the Lateran Treaty with Italy in 1929 to compensate the Popes for loss of 16,000 square miles of territory stretching across Italy from sea to sea, of which the pontiffs were deprived by the unification of Italy in 1870.

The former Papal domain had a population of more than 3,000,000 persons. Today the population of Vatican City is slightly in excess of 1000; yet so important is it as the seat of the Pope that 37 countries, including some of the greatest world powers, send diplomatic representatives there and in turn receive Papal envoys in their capitals.

Under the Pope, Vatican City has a governor, a secretary-general, a central council, three courts, an army of 110 Swiss Guards, and a police force numbering 100. It has its coinage and postage stamps, with its own post office, welfare center, railway center and telegraph office. More important, because of its unique world status, Vatican City has its own radio station—installed by Marconi himself.

In striking contrast to Vatican City in many ways is the next smallest sovereign state, the principality of Monaco. With an area of 370 acres, it lies near the French-Italian border on the Mediterranean. It is the only one of the world's pygmy states that possesses a seacoast, and its navy is the yacht of the reigning prince. The revenue of the principality is derived mainly from taxes on the gaming tables of Monte Carlo, a town of less than 2000 population at the base of the promontory from which the palace overlooks the sea. Except for the water boundary, the principality is entirely surrounded by French territory.

—REPUBLIC OF SAN MARINO—

Another sovereign state, which like the Vatican is surrounded by Italy, is the republic of San Marino. A fourteenth-century stronghold atop Mount Titanus extended its domain by purchase until now San Marino's 38 square miles sustain a population of almost 15,000. Less than a score of miles inland from Mimini on the eastern coast, the country is devoted largely to producing wine, raising cattle, and quarrying building stone. It is ruled over by a Grand Council of 60 members, two of whom are appointed every six months to act as Regents.

To mention San Marino is to name its capital, for they have the same name. The dominant life of the small republic centers around the quaint old town which was built about the labors of a missionary, Marino, who gave himself to the preaching of the gospel to the oppressed masons who were engaged in building the walls around the city of Rimini and those who were working in the stone quarries in the surrounding mountains.

Fifth place in smallness is assigned to Andorra, with its 191 square miles in the Pyrenees between France and Spain. It has a population of approximately 700, and owes its independence largely to its mountainous character and its inaccessibility. Even Napoleon, when assaulting the Pyrenees to invade Spain, knew nothing of the country, and when told that it had been independent for more than 500 years, said if that were the case he would not interfere. And he did not, although sweeping everything else before him.

Before 1921 there was but one road in the entire country, running from the French to the Spanish border across Andorra. No automobile or motion picture had ever been seen there, and radio was unknown.

Lines for Living

WHO?

Who will I meet tomorrow
I will count as a new-found friend?
Perhaps in a room of sorrow,
Perhaps at some rainbow's end
My hand will strike hand of another,
In joy or deepest pain,
He will become my brother,
And I his fairest gain.

The friend we plan on making,
The one we strive to gain,
Is often a mere hand-shaking
And nothing the years retain.
But that accidental meeting,
Where plans we can't employ
Become a lasting greeting
And a bond of deepest joy.

INFANT DEATHS REDUCED BY 'K'

Newly Discovered Vitamin Will Prevent Brain Hemorrhages

Philadelphia (U.P.)—The function of the newly discovered life-preserving Vitamin K has been explained by its inventor, Dr. Henrik Dam, of the University of Copenhagen, Denmark.

According to Dr. Dam, Vitamin K will prevent brain hemorrhages which are fatal to one of every 100 babies. Even infants who do survive sometimes are life cripples.

As a precaution against infant deaths in this manner, doses of the vitamin are given the expectant mother at intervals before birth pains begin. The vitamin stimulates the production of prothrombin, which in turn stimulates the manufacture of fibrin. Fibrin is a clot-forming substance in a child's blood.

Used After Birth

After birth, additional doses of Vitamin K are given the child to tide it over until it is able to produce its own bacteria producing vitamins, Dr. Dam said.

Vitamin K was synthesized in pure form in 1939. In substance, it is a pale yellow oil. It is related chemically to chlorophyl, the green coloring matter in plant life, and in plants is produced in the same cells that make chlorophyl.

The vitamin is found in large concentrations in fish as well as in plants. There is a slight chemical difference between the type produced by green plants and the type produced by animal life.

Vitamin K is absorbed through the walls of the intestines.

Feeds Liver Cells

From the intestinal walls, Dam continued, it passes to certain cells in the liver where it stimulates the cells to manufacture prothrombin. This substance, through a complicated chemical reaction, helps the production of fibrin. Without fibrin, human beings would bleed to death.

New-born infants do not have enough bacteria in their intestines to produce all the Vitamin K which they need. Consequently the child's supply of this vitamin is inadequate to take care of any injury that may occur to any of its blood vessels.

Vitamin K is ineffectual for victims of hemophilia, the inherited disease in which chronic bleeding often brings death.

Upper Peninsula's Potato Growers To Seek State Honors

Five top-ranking Upper Peninsula potato growers will represent this region and will compete for state honors during Farmers Week at Michigan State College, February 3 to 7.

Elizabeth Bastien, of Stephenson, who won the U. P. potato queen contest in Manistique last October in competition with eight other county contestants, will represent the region in the state contest.

Alphonse Verschure, of Manistique, first in the certified seed growers contest at the U. P. potato show last fall, will seek further honors with an exhibit from his 500-bushel-per-acre yield.

Clayton Ford, Cornell, Delta county, winner of the Delta county contest sponsored by the Booster club against a field of 167 entries and winner of the U. P. tablestock growers contest with 66 entries, will compete for the state tablestock growers championship. He had a yield of 449 bushels per acre.

Norbert Eagloski, Iron River, with a yield of 299.5 bushels per acre; Gerald Thone, Stephenson, with 310.4 and William Seppanen, Trenary, with 390, will represent their respective districts as winners of the Smith-Hughes high school premier grower contests in the U. P. Each contestant will receive a trophy presented by the Michigan Quality Potato association.

In addition, 45 of the best prize-winning samples from the 1940 U. P. show at Manistique will be exhibited for state competition and state awards in the state grain and potato show.

Candidate

CHARLES M. ZIEGLER

Lansing—Charles M. Ziegler, present city assessor of Lansing and former deputy state highway commissioner, announced this week he would be a candidate for highway commissioner at the Republican state convention to be held in Grand Rapids February 28.

Ziegler was the Republican candidate for state highway commissioner in the spring election of 1937, and received a splendid vote, in spite of the fact that the whole state went Democratic in the preceding fall at the peak of the Roosevelt wave of popularity.

His qualifications are based on a long experience in engineering and highway administration. After graduating from Saginaw Eastern high school in 1908 he took a course in civil engineering at the University of Michigan, graduating in 1913. He then joined the engineering department of the Ann Arbor railroad, later serving four years with the engineering department of the city of Saginaw, being assistant city engineer when he left in 1918 to go with the airplane department of the United States government at Dayton, Ohio.

Quarterly CCC Enrollment Takes 41 County Boys

Forty-one Delta county young men have enrolled in the Civilian Conservation Corps for the enrollment period which ended January 18, leaving three vacancies in the county quota of 44.

Applications are being taken at the county social welfare department for the next enrollment period which will be sometime early in April Quotas are set and boys are admitted into CCC camps every three months.

All applicants who are between 17 and 23½ years of age, unemployed, single, citizens and not under conviction for crime or on probation or parole, and who can pass the physical examination are assured of being accepted in the CCC. Relief status is no longer a requirement.

If CCC enrollees are eligible for selective service training and their numbers are called, they are given an honorable discharge from the CCC and transferred directly to the U. S. Army.

The CCC is giving increased emphasis to the training of youths in occupational skills, such as surveying, use of tractors, trucks and various other camp activities.

"Yes, I find travel so broadening!"

From the Boys at Camp

BY ROY JOHNSON

A closely fought football game last Saturday afternoon was the highlight of our weekend down here at camp. Our regimental football team chalked up their first victory in two starts over the 125th Infantry with a score of 6-0. The game was featured with continuous line bucks with a few passes tossed in now and then. Pvt. John La Fave did most of the ball toting for the Engineers, carrying the ball over in the last quarter for the only score of the game. All in all it was a very interesting game from the spectators view point. There are three more games left on our schedule in which we meet the 128th Inf. this coming Saturday. As yet the 128th team hasn't been defeated.

The long hours of waiting to move to our new location have finally come to an end. The 107th regiment, including Co. A, will start tomorrow morning to move all of our belongings to our new camp which is known as camp Livingston. Improvements at Camp Livingston are numerous and offer complete and comfortablt housing for everyone. The men's tents are framed about six feet high with boarding to three feet and the remainder of screen. A regimental recreation center has a seating capacity of 450 with a stage complete with lighting equipment for the presentation of stage shows and other amateur theatricals. The mess halls are almost unbelievable. Two large iceboxes with meat compartments large enough to hold several days supply, a natural gas cooking range and two large sinks add to the efficiency of the kitchens. We've really been roughing it compared to the new set up. Were all anxious to get over there and get settled.

The Engineers took part in two night maneuvers this week. Tuesday night was spent on mostly Infantry tactics. The whole idea was in marching troops out under the cover of darkness. When we approached the enemy we deployed our troops out and in the form of skirmishers we approached the firing line. It was a perfect night for this kind of tactics no stars being out. It made it much easier to come up to the firing line without being seen. Wednesday night we worked on a different problem. We were given different missions to perform. We were told that the enemy was about twenty four hours off, giving us plenty of time to go out and lay road blocks which would hold off their advance. We picked a good spot along the road on which we knew that they would approach, and built our blocks. We wired up a cement bridge with TNT and placed ground mines along the ditch making it unpassable. Our block was also covered by riflemen making it difficult for the enemy to get out of their trucks and repair the craters in the road. This will give you an idea of the type of training we are getting. Only this is just a minor maneuver.

Private Joe Spangler has been transferred from Co. A to Headquarters and Service. Over their Joe will get a chance to do the work he is best suited for. Joe has had quite a bit of training as a draftsman and in this company he will get more chances to show his stuff. We're wishing him a lot of luck over there and we know he'll make good.

Next time will send news from camp Livingston.

St. Nicholas

Norbert's Party

St. Nicholas, Mich. — Norbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Beauchamp, was honored at a party given Thursday evening at his home. The occasion being his seventh birthday anniversary. A delicious lunch was served to a number of guests at the close of the evening.

Prairie Chickens' Haven

In early winter a flock of twelve prairie chickens gathered daily at the Remi Van DenBussche farm to feed on a straw stack which contained some grain. Mr. Van DenBussche noticing this, scattered more grain for them around the stack, and he now reports that there are thirty-two prairie chickens and that the number increases steadily.

Dental Care

The pupils of the St. Nicholas school were taken to Rock on Friday, where they had dental work done. The Rock school bus transported them there.

Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith of Negaunee were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Heirman on Thursday.

John strom of Grand Marais spent Wednesday and Thursday of the past week on business here.

Raymond Duchaine of Flat Rock spent Sunday visiting at the Henry Vermote and Peter Vermote homes.

Miss Elsie LaChapelle, who is employed in Escanaba returned there last week, Sunday, following a months' stay at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry LaChapelle.

Margaret Heynessens returned to her home here, after spending the past two weeks in Perkins, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harvey Beauchamp.

Coastline Lighthouses Now Reduced To Thirty

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C. — Lighthouses serving coasts of the United States have been reduced to 30, a little more than half the number of such stations in use at the beginning of the century. Other aids to navigation, however, have increased. Lights of all kinds to serve ships have almost doubled in the last 20 years, and now total approximately 9000.

Because of the discontinuance of certain water routes as a result of competition of railroads, the number of coastline miles served by lighthouses has also been reduced. However, there are still 40,000 such miles guarded by the United States Coast Guard. On the other hand, responsibility of the service has greatly increased.

The first lighthouse in the United States was built in 1716 on Great Brewster Island at the entrance to Boston Harbor. It fared badly during the Revolution and was blown up by the British when they left Boston, but it was rebuilt in 1783.

The first lights burned whale oil. Several lights occupied a lighthouse lantern, the glassed-in top of a lighthouse. The beacons of the early Greeks, Romans and Egyptians were fires atop piles of stone, and open flames supplied light in early lighthouses. When the Boston light was established, some British lighthouses were still burning candles.

Nine million candlepower is the present light at Navesink, New Jersey, the most powerful United States maritime light, and is one of the lights that guards the entrance to New York Harbor. Electric lights are now used in most of the larger lighthouses, amplified by lenses of glass prisms. The lenses revolve, causing the light to flash in different directions. Before the revolving lens was invented, twin lights were used and operated in such manner to distinguish one lighthouse from another.

The moving parts of the lens at Kilauea Point Lighthouse, Hawaiian Islands, weigh four tons. Hawaii also has the largest lens in a United States lighthouse, at Makapuu Point, on Oahu Island, and the highest light at Lehua. The latter is 707 feet above sea level. The tallest lighthouse, 191 feet, is at Hog Island, Virginia.

The first experimental radio beacon was installed about 25 years ago at Navesink. The radio beacon is the only light that can pierce dense fogs, day or night. With the aid of a radio direction finder and identifying radio signals from two or more lighthouses, even 200 or more miles away, a ship can now locate its position without aids.

Sandy Hook, built in 1764, was the first lighthouse at the entrance to New York Harbor. The colonial assembly authorized a lottery three years earlier to raise funds for its construction. At the same time a lottery to finance the building of a lighthouse in New London Harbor was authorized by the Connecticut colonial legislature, which also placed a tax on shipping to support the light.

The first United States lighthouse on the Great Lakes was erected in the harbor of Buffalo in 1818. The lighting of the Pacific Coast did not begin until five years after the beginning of the famous gold rush. The first light was in San Francisco Bay. Saint George Reef Lighthouse, near Crescent City, California, is one of the most costly ever constructed. It was 10 years in building and cost $702,000.

Strange Signals

During fogs, lighthouses have sounded strange warning signals. Boston light in 1719 fired a cannon; the Beavertail, Rhode Island, light used a horse to operate a compressed air mechanism to blow a fog signal. Hot air engines have produced power for horns and trumpets, and steam fog signals are operated by compressed air or electricity.

Buoys also bear lights, and sea buoys are quite large. As an illustration, a buoy that broke from its moorings off the North Carolina coast a few years ago had a perpendicular measurement of 40 feet. It weighed 12 tons, with light and whistle, and cost $8000. After drifting some 4000 miles, it was retrieved off the coast of Ireland.

The whistles on most buoys are sounded by the motion of the buoy in the sea. Air is sucked into a chamber as the buoy rises on a wave, and is forced out through the whistle as the buoy descends.

Because of the service they have rendered, all lighthouses are considered famous. However, and for reasons not stated, the United States Coast Guard Lighthouse Service lists only 10 historically famous lighthouses in the United States. The oldest of these is Cape Ann Lighthouse, situated on Thatcher Island in Massachusetts. It was first established by the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1773 and taken over by the United States Government in 1789. However, Portland Head Lighthouse, at South Portland, Maine, shares with Cape Henry, Virginia, the distinction of being the first lighthouse built by the new government, Portland being the first new tower to be lighted by that government, and Cape Henry the first new tower to be built by that authority, both, however, going into commission in 1791.

Income Taxes In Nutshell

No. 3

FORMS FOR MAKING RETURNS

Forms for filing returns of income for 1940 have been sent to persons who filed returns last year. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve a taxpayer of his obligation to file his return and pay the tax on time—on or before March 15 if the return is made on the calendar-year basis, as is the case with most individuals.

Forms may be obtained upon request, written or personal, from the offices of collectors and from deputy collectors of internal revenue in the larger cities and towns. A person whose gross income for 1940 was derived from salary, wages, dividends, interest, and annuities, and was not in excess of $5,000, should make his return on Form 1040-A. A person whose gross income was in excess of $5,000 or, regardless of amount, was derived from a business, profession, rents, or sale of property is required to use Form 1040. Failure to use the proper form presents difficulties to both the taxpayer and the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Therefore, it is emphasized that a taxpayer who is liable for a return and is engaged in a business or profession is required to use Form 1040.

The return must be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer has his legal residence or principal place of business on or before midnight of March 15, 1941. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return or in four equal installments, due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

SNODEO WILL BE CONDUCTED

Road Commissions Urged To Enter Teams In Contest

Menominee—E. J. Pearce, Menominee county highway superintendent and president of the Upper Peninsula Road Builders' Association, today urged county road commissions of the Upper Peninsula to enter teams in the Second Annual Snodeo to be held in conjunction with the Houghton Highway Conference on February 14 and 15.

The Snodeo is a snow fighting contest in which picked teams from county highway organizations battle drifts on Isle Royale Sands for prize awards. Isle Royale Sands is a stamp sand flat bordering Portage Lake near Houghton.

"The value of the Snodeo was evident last year. The demonstration of skill by the snow fighting teams in snow removal operations was one of the highlights of the Conference. I believe the contest will be a means of developing still more effective methods and equipment in clearing highways," Pearce said.

Because of the long winters in the Upper Peninsula the problem of winter maintenance extends through more than half the year, Pearce pointed out. The summer months are primarily devoted to construction and maintenance then is relatively unimportant.

Plowing to keep the roads cleared, sanding and blading to control icy conditions occupy road crews during the winter time. Efficient winter maintenance means safer traveling conditions and lower costs, therefore contests of skill in this field of operation are very much worthwhile, Pearce said.

Carl Person Goes To Lansing Session

Carl Person, chairman of the finance and taxation committee of the Delta county board of supervisors was in Lansing yesterday to attend a state convention of county board of supervisors members, representing the Delta board. He was delegated by Ole J. Thorsen, board chairman.

A major question before the convention will be that of the "home rule" county welfare law, established here and throughout the state in 1939, with the convention generally in favor of retaining the law, according to Associated Press reports.

The meeting will continue through Thursday.

Bomb's Close; Fish for Crew

London (U.P.)—Hundreds of fish, dead or dying, were flung on to the decks of three vessels in harbor at a southeast coast town when a Nazi raider dropped a bomb in the water nearby. On one ship, the crew had enough fish to last two days.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Early rising momentum faded from the stock market today and closing prices were irregularly lower by fractions to a point or so. The Associated Press average of 60 issues was off .2 of a point at 43.6. Transfers totalled 467,730 shares against Monday's turnover of 357,920, smallest since September 16.

Attention centered mainly on the U. S. Steel meeting after the conclusion of the session. Directors declared a dividend of $1 a share on the common, the same as paid in April, September and December last year, and reported net earnings for the final quarter of $3.04 a share. Net would have been around $3.84, it was revealed, had not the company deducted the full year's pension payments of nearly $7,000,000 from the last quarter's profits. With this deduction, the full year's net was placed at $8.84 a share, best since 1930, compared with $1.83 in 1939. The common shares, up most of the day, ended unchanged at 67 1-8.

Over-the-counter sales of stocks continued to take much of the wind out of the "big board", blocks of 92,700 shares of Standard Oil of Kentucky and 6,000 shares of General American Transportation being offered for private purchase off the exchange after the close.

Not so cheering also was the announcement two stock exchange seats had changed hands at $30,000 each, equalling the recent 41-year low for memberships.

Stocks on the offside included Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Boeing, United Aircraft, Johns-Manville, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, Kennecott, American Telephone, Western Union, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Sears Roebuck and Du Pont.

In a mixed curb modest gains were retained by Creole Petroleum, American Gas, Lake Shore and Gulf Oil. Behind were American Cyanamid "B," Brewster Aero and Aluminum of America.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Jan. 28 (AP)—Wheat sagged again today when it became apparent that weather conditions were ideal throughout most of the soft winter wheat belt.

Selling pressure was not heavy, but there always was enough wheat for sale to offset any enthusiasm for the buying side. Prices had a downward trend most of the day, except for a transient rally around noon which saw prices slightly above Monday's close.

At the close, wheat was ½ to 3-4 lower than yesterday's finish, May 84 to 84 1-8, July 78¼ to 78 1-8; corn 1-8 to ½ down, May 62 7-8, July 63; oats unchanged to 1-8 off.

Discouraging to the market also was the continued absence of purchases by milling interests. "There's too much free wheat floating around for the millers to take any chances," said a trader. "They are buying on a hand to mouth basis because they feel certain that there will be little change in the immediate situation."

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—The January climb in rail bonds lost some momentum in late trading today but enough gain was saved to lift the Associated Press carrier average .1 of a point to 64.2, a new 1940-41 high.

Last hour profit selling cut down many of the early gains and some recent favorites in the rail group closed fractions to a point lower. Industrial and utility liens were mixed and generally narrow.

Moderately higher at the close were Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s at 53 5-8, American & Foreign Power 5s at 57 1-8, New York Central 5s at 69¾, Nickel Plate 5½s at 75, Frisco 4½s of '78 at 11¾, and Southern Railway 4s at 63 5-8.

Southern Pacific 4½s of '68, which had moved up sharply in recent sessions, retreated around a point. Fractionally down were Western Union 5s of '60, Nickel Plate 4½s, and Illinois Central 4¾s.

Rapid River

Fellowship Supper

Rapid River, Mich.—The Esther society of Calvary Lutheran church are sponsoring a fellowship supper to be held in the church parlor on Thursday evening Jan. 30. Serving will begin at 5 o'clock and continue until all are served.

Mrs. Oscar Johnson is general chairman assisted by Mrs. Frank Nygren. The public is cordially invited to attend. The officers of Calvary Church have rented the house known as the Berman home from Mrs. Sophie Cameron to be used as a parsonage by their pastor Rev. Swanson who will arrive April 15 to assume his duties as pastor.

Personals

Dean Lind, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lind, was taken suddenly ill while at camp Sunday. He was rushed to St. Francis Hospital where an operation for appendicitis was performed Monday.

Benny Sherwood agreeably surprised his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sherwood Friday when he accidently walked in on them. This was his first visit home in twenty-two years. He lives at Fort Clinton, Ohio where he does carpenter work as a government employee. He came to Escanaba with a friend who is a commercial truck driver and came to Escanaba for a load of live fish. He returned Saturday after spending Friday night here. He is married and has two daughters 18 and 14 years.

SERIAL STORY

CONSCRIPT'S WIFE

BY BETTY WALLACE

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Kindly strangers help Martha and Paul after the crash. Paul is unconscious. Martha is not seriously injured. At the hospital, doctors report Paul has concussion, fractured collar bone. When Martha goes home, Eugene censures her for parking on the side road. Next day she learns Bill has called, is coming to spend the week end. She is terrified by the thought that Suzanne may have seen Bill, that he is following Paul here.

SUZANNE TALKS

CHAPTER XX

Martha Marshall dressed very carefully for Bill's eyes, that Saturday morning after the accident. She creamed and powdered her face, trying to obliterate the long red scratch on her cheek. All the while, her fingers trembled with anxiety.

Was it only because he wanted to see her that Bill had managed to get this unexpected pass? Or was it because Eugene told him that Paul had come?

Eugene said Bill had been surprised. A chill little shiver crawled down her spine. Surprise was probably mild as a description of what Bill felt.

Then she brought herself up sharply. Surely Bill wasn't going through the suspicions and the doubts and the fears that she'd lived through herself! It would never occur to Bill to imagine anything about Martha and Paul.

Or—her fingers, fumbling with the buttons in the back of her blouse, stopped suddenly—had Suzanne really dared to carry out her wild threat? Had she actually appeared at camp?

She couldn't eat breakfast. The phone ringing made her jump. Eugene answered it. With a grunt, he put it down. "For you. It's Elliott, at the hospital. Must have had a phone put in his room!" Helen's room, at the same hospital, had no phone.

When she heard Paul's voice, a weakness came over her. "Are you all right? How do you feel?"

"There's nothing the matter with me," said Paul. He sounded so exactly like himself! As if he were in his own office. "But I've been nearly out of my mind worrying about you. How are you, Martha? I thought I'd killed you with my criminal carelessness."

"I'm practically perfect," she said. "The hospital snubbed me. Paul, Bill's coming from camp. We'll both be up to see you in a little while."

"Bill? How did he—?"

"He doesn't know about the accident yet. He called last night while we were out." She went on, uncertainly, "I'm so afraid Suzanne may have—"

"She wouldn't have dared," he cut in. "She was just talking and lost her head. Don't think about it."

Even as she held the phone, she heard the children shouting outside. "Here's Uncle Bill, and he's a sodjer! Daddy, Daddy, Uncle Bill's a sodjer."

"Bill's here," she said. "Good-by, we'll be there in a little while."

• • •

She ran to the door, the swift singing happiness that always came at seeing Bill coursing through her. She knew, in the swift moment before she actually saw him, that this joy that could turn her blood to water, this sweet delight and keen aliveness, could never come for her with anyone else. And she prayed, achingly, that nothing would ever change it for Bill—ever spoil it for either of them.

"Darling!" She threw herself into his arms, her cheek with the alarming scratch against his shoulder. Perhaps he wouldn't notice it right away. His arms, tight around her, made everything all right once more. The sense of panic which the accident had brought—the nebulous fears which had gnawed at her this morning—were gone. "Darling, I'm so glad you came. Oh, Bill, I do love you so!"

"Honey," he cried. "Martha, sweet. Here, let me look at you." He held her away from him, his eyes on her face with the old hunger and eagerness. And then, like a blow, he saw the scratch. "Martha, what happened? Where did you get that scratch?"

Behind them, Eugene was grinning sardonically. Before he had a chance to speak, Martha told Bill quickly, "It's nothing. I'll tell you later. Come in, let's catch our breath first. Are you hungry?"

"See here, kid, what's been going on?" Bill was seriously alarmed, and his eyes commanded her.

"I was in a little accident," she admitted reluctantly. "Paul and I were driving last night, and—"

"Last night? I wondered what made him come up here, when Eugene told me on the phone."

"He brought her her paycheck," said Eugene. "Then they went for a ride and first thing I know, he's in the hospital and a man brings Martha back, knocked silly."

"I wasn't knocked silly! I was only scratched up a little. It was unavoidable. We—we turned into the highway, and the other car had been going so fast—"

• • •

Bill's sunburned face was still, closed up, unreadable. He sat down on the sofa, drawing his wife beside him with hands that were suddenly very strong. She felt his fingers biting into her arm, and saw the line of his mouth tighten. "Suppose you tell me about it, Martha?"

"Oh, Bill, don't get worked up! Really, I'm not hurt at all. He couldn't help it, don't you see? We turned into the highway—we had been talking. Paul said the office was so busy I ought to come back and hire a woman to do the work here . . ."

Bill was listening in silence. With that look on his face. With his eyes telling her nothing. She went on, desperately, "We just got so absorbed, talking, that we turned out—and the other car was speeding—"

Eugene, straightening his shoulder, put in, "So he wanted you to hire a woman to look after the place here, eh?"

"He thought it was too hard for me."

Bill's big hand dropped to her knee. He caught sight of the bruises under her stocking. "That's from last night?"

"Yes, but it doesn't amount to anything." She leaped to her feet. "Darling, please don't make a tragedy out of an unimportant little accident. We ought to go and see Paul. He's the one who's in the hospital."

"Bad?"

"No. The doctor said broken collar bone and concussion. He sounded all right on the phone a little while ago."

Eugene said, "Take my car. Don't forget to look in on Helen, too."

• • •

All the way to the hospital, Martha tried to be natural with Bill. She kept her voice light, asked him about camp, laughed about the accident. But his answers were short, and behind the eyes that told her nothing, she was afraid Bill was painfully fumbling with the fact that Paul had driven up here after her. Once he said, "Why didn't he mail you the check?"

"Oh, he wanted to see how I was doing too, I guess. After all, the office is busy and—maybe they told him to talk me into coming back . . ."

That curious constraint was still between them as they walked into Paul's room at the hospital. It was there as Martha hung back, letting Bill speak first.

"So you got my wife all scratched up, you worm!" Bill cried. But the heartiness was brittle, some of the easy good-fellowship there had always been between the two men was absent. Or, perhaps, Martha told herself, she was only imagining it.

Paul was propped up on the pillows. There was a bandage around his arm and shoulder. He did not look ill. "I wish they'd let me out of here."

"Let you out? You ought to be in jail!" Bill roared. "Taking my wife out and nearly killing her."

Paul's swift wince was too real. Bill said, hastily, "Heck, fella, I'm just kidding. Lucky it was no worse. Don't take it to heart, Paul. Accidents will happen."

Martha stood close beside Bill, gratefully. Everything was going to be all right. The door opened. A nurse looked in. "Another visitor for you, Mr. Elliott."

Suzanne Decker, her arms full of flowers, came into the room. Martha stiffened in surprise. Paul, too, was looking at Suzanne in undisguised amazement. "How did you find out so quickly?" he asked.

"I phoned you at the office early this morning. Your chief engineer told me you were in the hospital." She ran to the bed. "Paul, how are you? All the way out here, I kept thinking the most awful things! He only said you'd been in an accident—he wouldn't give me any details, said he didn't know." She looked at the white bandages around his shoulder. "You're badly hurt! That bandage—"

"The awful truth is a broken collarbone," Paul said. "Your hasty trip, while a compliment of course, simply isn't justified by the injuries." He was smiling, now, but Martha sensed the annoyance under his bantering.

"Martha was in that accident, too," came Bill's voice, from the other side of the bed. "Don't you care what happens to her, Suzanne?"

He meant it lightly, of course. He was teasing—going on with the bantering Paul had begun. But it was exactly the wrong thing to say, Martha realized with horror.

For Suzanne's red lips were tightening grimly, and flame leaped into those gray eyes. Even while Martha's own eyes flew to Suzanne's pleadingly, in the thick silence which settled, the savage fury which Bill's well-meant teasing had caused went mounting.

Suzanne cried, "Why should I care what happens to Martha, Bill Marshall? You blind fool, if she had only let Paul alone this would never have happened!"

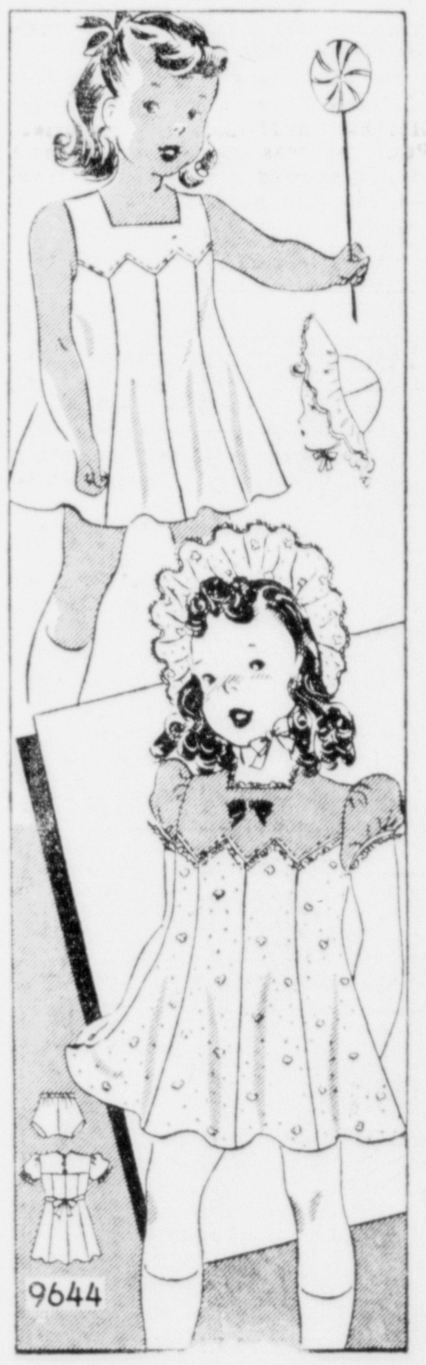
Play Or Party Frock And Hat In One Pattern

BY MARIAN MARTIN



PATTERN 9644

All dressed up and ready to go anywhere—or all comfortable for play—here's a panelled kiddie design that's adaptable to any purpose. One version of Pattern 9644 by Marian Martin shows a gay party frock; another a sundress that's made by omitting the puffed sleeves and cutting the armholes and back neckline low. What a novel touch the pointed lines of the front yoke give. You might have the yokes and sleeves of the dress in bright lace-edged contrast. It will make a fine sunshade worn with the sleeveless frock, too. Panties are included in this pattern.

Pattern 9644 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. Size 6, dress and bonnet, requires 2 3-8 yards 35 inch fabric and 1-2 yard contrast; sunfrock adn bonnet, 1 3-8 yards 35 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

It's ready—our new MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK FOR 1941! Order a copy today, and do your Spring shopping without going further than the mailbox. For here are dozens of smart, easily-made styles shown in realistic colors. Here are attractive, new-season wardrobes for every member of the family; for every occasion from morning to night. There are tips on the newest silhouettes and fabrics, too. This indispensible home fashion guide is YOURS FOR JUST FIFTEEN CENTS! A PATTERN IS ALSO FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER COST TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Guzzonato and children, Donald and Ann Marie, have moved to Escanaba from Iron Mountain to make their home with Mrs. Guzzonato's father, David Godin, at the family home, 514 South Ninth street. Mrs. Guzzonato is the former Louise Godin of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Carlisle have returned to Marquette following a visit here with Dr. and Mrs. Harry W. Long.

John T. Willis of Sault Ste. Marie, Commander of the Tenth District, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was in Escanaba Monday and Tuesday on official business.

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

That recent trip north of the Arctic Circle the United States Army flyers took in their electrically heated undies may bring about another change in our ideas on what is modest and what is immodest.

If some inventor gets busy and puts out electric undies that run on a small, light-weight battery—undies may become outer garments for the women of the world.

No fooling. When closed cars replaced chilly buggies, and central heating usurped the place of inadequate fireplaces, women exchanged their numerous and bulky petticoats for wisps of silk.

MODESTY STANDARDS STILL ARE CHANGING

Then when girls really learned how to play sports—and not just play at them—sports clothes became briefer and briefer. Each time that women discarded some of their clothing, or reduced the essential pieces in weight and bulk—we changed our standards of modesty.

So, if a brief little undie, heated by electricity, will keep humans warm and comfortable even in sub-zero weather—aren't chances good that electric undies will appear in public as outer garments?

In a way it is too bad that New York's big style show, Fashion Futures, came off before the electric undies story came out. Otherwise, the patrons might have seen Miss Vitamin Girl parading up and down, maybe sitting in front of an electric fan, in a suit of electrically heated underwear.

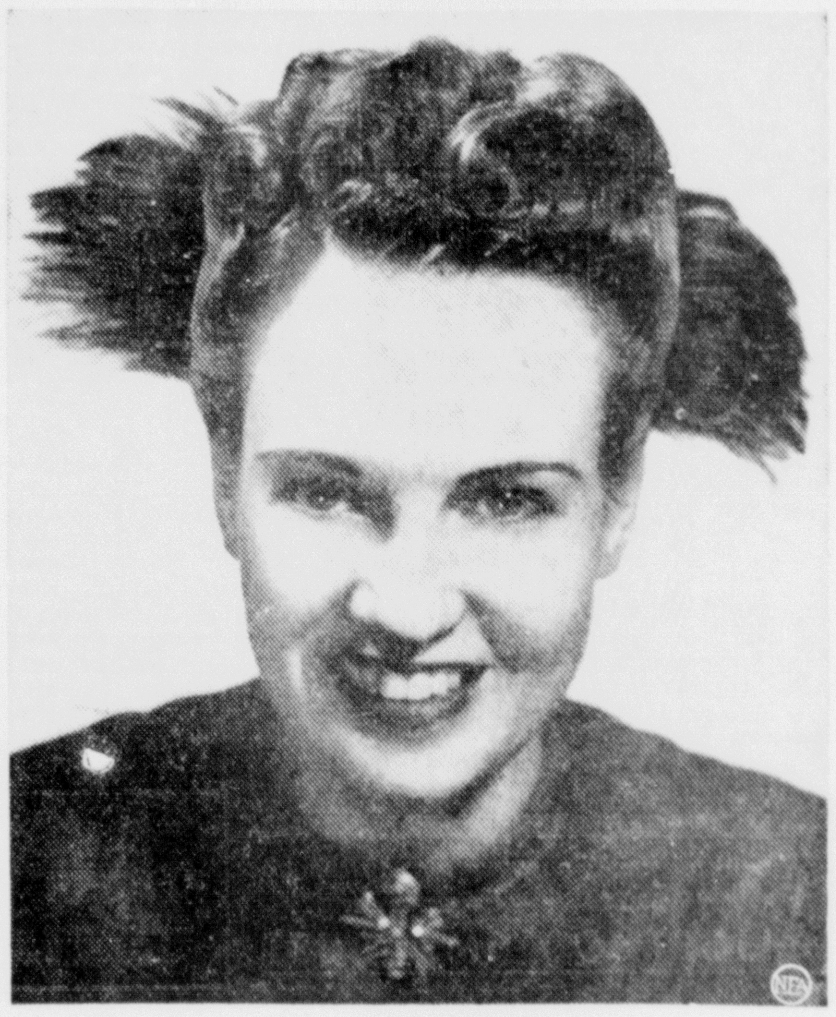
ELECTRIC LINGERIE MADE FROM MINK?

It sounds like a really elegant idea, though there are a few women who may not appreciate its advantages. The too-fat and the too-skinny won't welcome it. Or will they? They haven't stayed away from the bathing beaches.

Probably the only women who are cinches to turn thumbs down on the idea are the women who own mink coats. But maybe the electric lingerie makers can turn out a few sets in mink and overcome even that sales resistance.

It is something to think about, ladies—especially when you're sitting in a draft.

It's "Hairo-Dynamic"



This winged coiffure is described as "hairo-dynamic" by Bootz Powell, Fort Worth, Tex., hairdresser who created it. It's called the "Spitfire," and along with its companion hair-do, the "Hurricane," is dedicated to the Royal Air Force.

ROAST PORK

6 pound (about) loin of pork
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons flour

Wipe off roast with a damp cloth. Set the pork fat side up on a rack placed in an open roaster. Sprinkle with other ingredients. Roast about 30 minutes per pound in a moderately slow oven. Do not baste nor add water to the roast.

Place potatoes around roast during the last hour of cooking and turn them frequently to allow even browning.

BROWNED SWEET POTATO RINGS

2 cups mashed sweet potatoes
1-4 cup flour
1-8 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons bacon (or other) fat

Pat leftover potatoes until half an inch thick on wax paper. Cut out rings with cooky cutter. Sprinkle with flour and salt and brown in fat heated in frying pan.

For fancier rings use a doughnut cutter.

CELERY CURLS

To make celery curls, cut celery stalks into pieces about four inches long. Make four or five incisions down stalk to within an inch of the end. Immerce in cold water and put in refrigerator for several hours. The split ends will curl back. Celery curls make an attractive garnish.

Club Luncheon, Regular Meeting This Afternoon

A full afternoon of activities for members of the Escanaba Woman's club today, will begin with a general committee luncheon which will be served promptly at one o'clock at the First Presbyterian church.

Following the luncheon a consumers' study program, comparing sheets prepared by Good Housekeeping Club Service will be led by Mrs. Willis Engel. All members are invited to attend.

The regular meeting of the club will open with a business session at 2:30 o'clock. The speaker of the day will be an operative from the Grand Rapids office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Mrs. H. H. Thurber is chairman of the committee in charge.

CREOLE EGGS

4 tablespoons bacon fat (or butter)
1 teaspoon minced onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
8 eggs, beaten well
1-2 cup tomato juice
2 tablespoons water
1-3 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika

Heat fat in frying pan, add onions and pepper to simmer five minutes. Stir constantly. Add other ingrediants, combined, and cock slowly and stir constantly until creamy. Serve immediately.

Isabella Dinner Party Enjoyable

Dinner at 6:30 o'clock was followed by assembly singing with Mrs. George Casey, leader, and Mrs. John Kress, Circle musician, pianist. Cards followed. Mrs. Alfred Mallette had high score in contract; Miss Ethel R. Gilmore was high in auction; Mrs. John Sullivan, first in five hundred; and Mrs. Jerry Jerow received the pinochle award.

Mrs. Arthur Messier was chairman of the party, assisted by Mesdames John Lang, Richard Guetten, Henry Charlebois, Elrich Lund, Ida Pepin and W. O. LaFond.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. George Dunn of Vincennes, Ind., are the parents of a daughter, born on Tuesday, January 21. The baby is the first granddaughter in the family of Mr. Dunn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dunn of this city.

BEWARE NOW OF EPIDEMIC COLDS!

Here's Some Good Time-Tested Advice

With folks all around suffering with contagious colds, be just as careful as you can—and you may avoid a lot of sickness, trouble and worry.

Follow these simple rules of health: Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Beware of wet feet and drafts. Take some exercise daily—preferably outdoors. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

Then use these two time-tested treatments when needed.

AT THE FIRST SIGN OF A SNIFFLE, SNEEZE OR NASAL IRRITATION ... put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril right away. This helps to prevent many colds from developing, because Va-tro-nol is expressly designed to help Nature's own defenses against colds. (If a head cold causes stuffiness, you'll find that a few drops of Va-tro-nol helps clear the clogging mucus and makes breathing freer and easier.)

IF A CHEST COLD OR COUGHING COLD DEVELOPS (some colds get by all precautions) depend on Vicks VapoRub to relieve miseries. Rub VapoRub on throat, chest and back and cover with a warmed cloth. VapoRub acts to bring relief 2 ways at once. It stimulates surface of chest and back like a warming poultice. At the same time it releases helpful medicinal vapors that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages.

Both Va-tro-nol and VapoRub have been tested through years of use in millions of homes. When you use these two medicines you are not experimenting, you are not taking needless chances. Remember: If the condition of the cold fails to respond quickly to treatment—or if more serious trouble is indicated—call your family physician right away. In the meantime be prepared! Get a bottle of Vicks Va-tro-nol and a jar of Vicks VapoRub today.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation of the wonderful acts of kindness shown us by neighbors and friends during the long illness and at the time of the death of our beloved wife and mother. We are very grateful to those who sent flowers, those who donated the use of their cars, those who served as active and honorory pallbearers and to all those who aided us in any way and helped us to bear our sorrow. The memory of these acts of kindness will always remain with us.

Red Cross Work Completed

Mrs. Arthur S. Tulloch, local chairman of the American Red Cross, Alger County Chapter, Grand Marais, announces the completion of all garments alloted to her unit. With 76 women working the garments have been completed and shipped within two months. The garments, made for war refugees, were as follows:

91 wool dresses—age 2 to 14 years.

3 crib quilts.

26 pairs of mittens.

15 mufflers.

39 pairs of boys and mens socks.

Mrs. Tulloch wishes to express her thanks to all those who donated their time, money and materials for findings, and service to this splendid cause. Earlier in the fall Mrs. Tulloch forwarded a total of 62 dollars to the Red Cross headquarters, $60 of which was for Roll Call and $2 donations.

Mrs. Sayre Ostrander Sr., chairman of the Junior Red Cross, announces that the Juniors held a rummage sale to help defray the expenses of findings and freight on the garments recently completed. The Juniors are to be commended on their fine work and excellent spirit of co-operation which they have shown.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING INFORMATION

Errors in advertisements should be reported immediately. The Daily Press will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

All ads are restricted to their proper classification and to the regular Daily Press style of type. The publishers reserve the right to edit or reject any classified advertising copy.

Advertising ordered for irregular insertions takes the one time rate. No ad is taken for less than a basis of three lines. Count six average words to the line. An average word contains six letters.

Accounts unpaid after 20 days will not be granted further credit.

Charged ads will be received by telephone and if paid at the Daily Press office within six days from the first day of insertion cash rates will be allowed.

Ads ordered for three or six times and stopped before expiration will be charged for only the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate earned.

The Daily Press makes an earnest effort to keep its advertising columns free of deceptive and dishonest announcements. Readers are requested to report unsatisfactory dealings with any advertiser in these columns.

PLEASE DO NOT ask for information on blind ads. The Daily Press will not disclose the identity of any box number or give any information not contained in the ad itself. A flat charge of 10c will be made for each box number issued.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 1-28

TRAILS BUILT IN U. S. FOREST

Ski Area Developed In Hiawatha National Woods

Eight ski trails and a toboggan slide have been constructed in the Hiawatha National Forest near Murphy Lake and are available for use by the general public without charge, Clarence Chase, local forest ranger, has announced.

Snow conditions are ideal in the Murphy lake region, Chase said, with excellent skiing conditions.

If public interest indicates a definite demand for establishment of the Murphy Lake region for recreational development, additional work will be done in that area by the forest service, it was reported.

The toboggan slide has a drop of about 60 feet, ending at the shoreline of Murphy Lake.

Located as it is in the Seney resort area, the Murphy Lake development is in the heart of the snow country and skiing conditions there are unusually good during a long period of the winter.

Shelter facilities are available in the area, and ski enthusiasts can drive their car right to the ski trails.

NATHAN RESIDENT DIES

Menominee—Charles A. Erickson, 77, of Nathan, died Sunday at 8:30 p. m. in St. Joseph's hospital of a chronic ailment.

Mr. Erickson was born in Sweden July 14, 1843, and came to this country in 1886. For many years he worked as an engineer on a narrow gauge railroad at Ingalls and in 1893 he assisted in the survey for the Wisconsin and Michigan railroad. Mr. Erickson had lived at Nathan since 1896 and had held various township offices during his residence there. At the time of his death he was Justice of the Peace of Holmes township.

Survivors are Mrs. Erickson, the former Christina Hammerberg whom he married November 22, 1899, and the following children: Mrs. Julius Langill (Christine Erickson) of Detroit; Mrs. Frederick Carlberg (Cecelia Erickson) of Evanston; Mrs. Eugene Torsch (Clarine Erickson) of Lachine, Mich.; Mrs. John Peterson (Cerona Erickson) and Clinton Erickson of Chicago; Mrs. Clifford Christensen (Celestine Erickson) of Manistique; and Clarence Erickson of Nathan.

It is, of course, perfectly possible, today, to build bombing planes that could cross the ocean, drop several tons of bombs, and return to their starting point.
—Charles A. Lindbergh, before congressional committee.

The five high guns of the local team will form the team, scores of which are sent in for record.

Red Cross Garments Should Be Turned In By Friday, Jan. 31

A request that all finished garments for Red Cross relief be turned in by Friday, Jan. 31, was made yesterday by Mrs. D. N. Kee, production chairman.

Baby shirts, stockings and pins which are being donated should be in by Thursday evening.

It is necessary that all of the articles be turned in at the designated time as packing and shipping must be cared for before the end of the week.

City Briefs

Mrs. C. D. Brazel of Enderlin, N. D., and Mrs. William Manney of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., have returned to their respective homes following a several weeks' visit at the home of Mrs. Joe Bruenig, Delta avenue.

The Misses Viola and Violet McIntyre left last week for Appleton, Wis., where they will be employed.

COMMISH SEEKS LIQUOR STORE

Urges Establishment of State Store In Gladstone

Establishment of a retail liquor store in Gladstone is requested of the Michigan Liquor Control commission by resolution adopted by the Gladstone City commission in regular meeting Monday night.

In the resolution it is pointed out that the city would be benefitted to the extent of giving employment to 3 persons, the maintenance of a building on the main street, and it would bring people to the community thereby benefitting other businessses.

Copies of the resolution were sent to Governor Murray D. VanWagoner, Lt. Gov. Frank Murphy, John Miner, chairman of the Liquor Control commission and James Dotsch, member of the commission.

City Manager A. F. Raddant was authorized to attend the 8th annual meeting of the Highway Engineers and Commissioners of the Upper Peninsula to be held at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton Feb. 14-15.

Another resolution requested the state legislature in behalf of local sports fishermen not to interfere with the present rights of dipnet fishermen to sell their catches during the spawning runs this season.

It was resolved to have two lifeguard boats constructed for use at the local beach this summer.

Soo Man Is Chosen U.P. Golden Gloves Referee

JACK DOUGLAS IS APPOINTED

Thomas Is Inspector and Betts and Hurley Are Judges

Jack Douglas of Sault Ste. Marie, veteran boxing official, has been named referee for the second annual Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves tournament at the Bonifas gym here Monday and Tuesday, according to information received yesterday from John Hettche, of Detroit, chairman of the state board of control.

Assignment of the referee for boxing meets is made by the state board of control.

Capt. Joseph Thomas of Negaunee, another boxing veteran, has been named fight inspector while George Hurley and Miles Betts of Marquette have been selected as judges.

All four men have been associated with fight promotion and the boxing sport for many years and are highly recommended for their integrity and impartiality. The Daily Press and Lions club, co-sponsors of the tournament, feel that boxers competing here will be handled to the satisfaction of all.

McGonagle Announcer

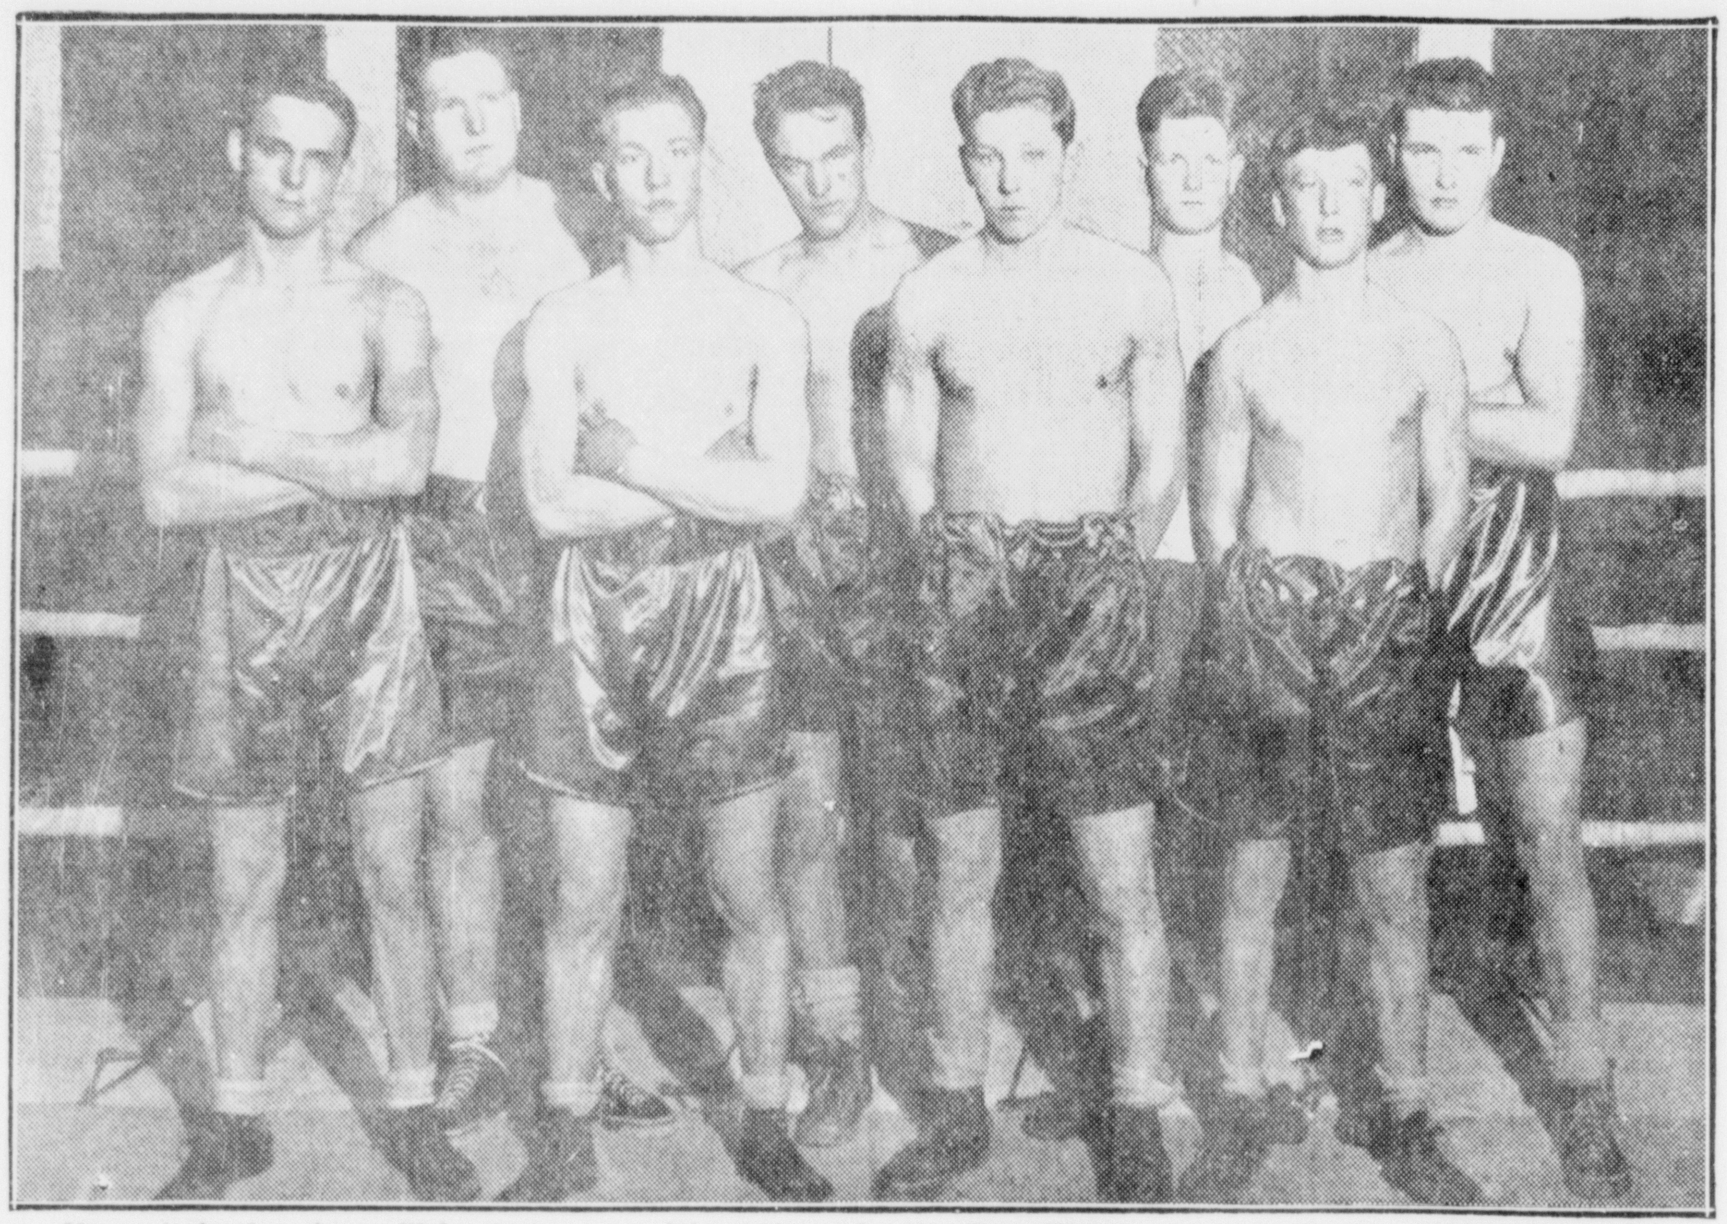
J. Clyde McGonagle, county prosecuting attorney, will be the announcer.

Timekeepers will be Jim Rouman, senior high coach; Bill Puckelwartz, junior high coach; Carl Kant, St. Joseph coach; and Harry Yach, coach at Powers.

In addition to the officials named above, fighters not having regular seconds will have available N. J. Nolden and Ernie Peterson, members of the Lions club, who have been associated with the fight game for several years and who are expert seconds. Fighters, however, will be allowed to name their own seconds.

With the announcement yesterday by Lieut. Marshek of the CCC that at least 21 CCC boys will be entered here, local tourney officials said that entries will pass the 50 mark easily. Entries officially close tonight. Fighters not having filed their entries should do so at once with Bevier Butts, tournament manager.

These Huskies Will Throw Leather In Gloves Tourney February 3-4



If you doubt that there will be plenty of leather thrown at the Golden Gloves tourney at the Bonifas gym next Monday and Tuesday nights, just take a look at the determined faces of the eight CCC champions, who will appear here. Marvin Beaudry (extreme left), 134 pounder from Camp Evelyn, was a Golden Gloves winner here last year while Bud Rossi, (third from left), 124 pounder from Camp Bewabic, also made a good showing before being eliminated. Rossi is an Iron Mountain boy. Others pictured here are: Roy Cox, 226, Mormon Creek; Albert Kaiser, 167, Bonifas; Edward Wreige, 156, Strongs; Donald Montgomery, 117, Fox; Norman Harris, 114, Fox; and Fred Nelson, 148, Germfask. Several other promising CCC boys will fight in the tourney.

Shermans Victors Over Powers 19-15

The Shermans beat Powers Independents at the Junior high school last night 19-15 in a tight game, with Sammy Schram outstanding for the locals with 11 points. Art Peterson, WPA recreational leader arranged the game.

U. P. Briefs

TATE WILL SPEAK

Ironwood—A combined meeting of the Gogebic Range Schoolmasters club and the Gogebic Range School Board association will be held Thursday night at 6:30 at the Puritan school. H. A. Tate, newly appointed president of Northern State Teachers college at Marquette, will be the principal speaker.

Musical numbers will be presented by the Bessemer township band under the direction of Martin O. Lamoreux. Those planning to attend are asked to notify H. O. Johnson of Ramsay in advance of the meeting. The meeting will follow the 6:30 dinner.

MANY AT PINE MT.

Iron Mountain—More than 5,000 persons—active skiers, toboggan riders and spectators—visited Pine Mountain Sunday, a record week-end crowd for the season to date.

Most of the fans were from the Iron Mountain-Kingsford area, but many were from out of town. One hundred and fifty skiers from Green Bay made up the largest party at the hill yesterday. Many specators watched downhill skiers and a few jumps were made from the big slide, to give spectators an added thrill.

No serious accidents marred the activity, but Donald Fontaine, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucian J. Fontaine, 725 Cass avenue, fractured his right leg below the knee in a skiing accident near Crystal lake Saturday at about 10:30 a. m.

FOUR MEETINGS PLANNED

Iron Mountain — About 1,200 delegates and other guests are expected to attend conventions to be held in Iron Mountain during the next six months.

The first convention scheduled is the Upper Peninsula Dairy Manufacturers association eighth annual meeting to be held at the Dickinson hotel, Feb. 21, 22 and 23. More than 200 visitors are expected.

A school of instruction for bottlers is booked for next April. Classes of the school, to be arranged by the Peninsula Coca Cola Bottling company, will be held in the Elks' building.

The largest meeting scheduled is the two-day District Rotary convention, May 18 and 19. More than 700 Rotarians and their wives from the Upper Peninsula and Wisconsin will attend the gathering, which will terminate with the governor's ball on the last day of the meeting.

Albert Wilke, register of deeds, is arranging the annual convention of the state association of registers of deeds, July 23, 24 and 25. Approximately 300 registrars, their wives, deputies and clerks are expected to attend.

Big Hockey Double Bill At Armory Rink Tonite

The hockey attraction of the season is scheduled for this evening at 8:15 o'clock when the Escanaba Hawks tangle with the Gladstone hockey club and the Escanaba Lions growl at the roaring Gladstone brother Lions.

Members of all four teams are in excellent condition for these crucial contests and reports late last night from the various camps give every indication that fans will be treated to an unforgettable spectacle.

Reports from the local Lion den in charge of "Ranger" Raack indicate that his savage group of man-eating Lions are pacing the floor impatiently awaiting the opening whistle. Raack, has been whetting the appetites of his charges with choice morsels of information regarding the fleshy taste of the Upbay Lions who have been training on a diet of choice smelt, and limburger cheese.

Included in the starting lineup of the Escanaba Lions will be such huskies as "Driller" Desilets, "Big Moose" Goulais, "Hash House" Gamble, "Cordwood" Jensen, "Two-Gun" Remington, "Five & Ten" Nolden and "Ice House" Johnson.

The reports coming from the Gladstone den are very vague, indicating that "Big Hank" Miller is planning on pulling something from his bag of tricks and probably will spring a surprise attack at the last moment. A large delegation of fans including the Gladstone Lioness' are expected to bolster the strength of the Upbay pack with moral and roaring support.

Bovin Is Manager

Reports from the Gladstone hockey club who will be pawing at the Escanaba Hawks indicate a strong, fighting aggregation, who will keep the Hawks on the move every minute. Manager Bovin has been putting his crew through vigorous workouts in preparation for this game which the Gladstone pucksters prefer to win above all others.

The Hawks lineup according to Coach Petaja will be much the same as that which started the Stambaugh game with Nottles at goalie, Hanson at center, Gorenchan and Petaja at wings, and Bertrand and Rose in the defense positions.

Jack Erickson, local attorney and former hockey star, will team up with "Sonny" Anderson, former player to take care of officiating.

A certain well known master of ceremonies is being negotiated with to handle announcements and remarks.

GLADSTONE KILLERS READY

Gladstone—The Gladstone Lions club is all set for their battle tonight with the Escanaba Lions on the hockey rink at the indoor enclosure at Escanaba tonight between periods of the Gladstone-Escanaba Hawks hockey tilt.

Seeing that Jimmy Frenn is furnishing the ambulance service local Lions will furnish the stretchers, stretcher bearers, water boy and doctor, "Teabone" Switzer announces.

In addition to players mentioned previously, the following terrors of the rounded blades are scheduled to put in an appearance with the Gladstone team: "Roughhouse" Skellenger, "Big Chief" LeClaire, "Timber" Brown, "Penney" Buckmaster, "Big Boy" Seibert, "Dude" Heslip, "Runt" Skoglund, "Slippery" Bakkum and "Shorthorn" Johnson.

Local Lions will gather at the corner of Delta and Ninth at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Each will bring an old broom. Transportation will be furnished for those without cars.

Brilliant Victory Scored By Hoppe, Weak From Illness

BY TOM SILER

Chicago, Jan. 28 (AP) — Willie Hoppe, still weak from an attack of pneumonia but as precise as ever, began defense of his world's three cushion billiards championship tonight with a brilliant 50 to 15 victory over young Herbert Peterson of St. Louis.

Chalk-faced but immaculate in a dinner jacket, Hoppe required only 32 innings to dispose of his inexperienced foe, tying the "best game" so far posted in this tournament.

Father Of Hockey Patricks Is Dead

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 28 (AP)—Joseph Patrick, 83, father of the Patrick brothers of hockey fame, died here today. His sons are Lester, vice president of Madison Square Garden and manager of the New York Rangers; Frank, business manager of the Montreal Canadiens in the National Hockey League; Guy, manager of the Vancouver Lions in the Pacific Coast Hockey League, and Stanley.

Maurin To Return Here Next Friday

Joe Maurin, director of the Escanaba Daily Press Ski School, will return to Escanaba from Manistique Friday morning, and will resume his course of instruction for the benefit of skiers of Escanaba and vicinity.

Private instructions will be given at a moderate fee in the mornings. Free lessons will be given at the Escanaba Golf club afternoons and at the Ludington park lighted hill evenings.

He will shift the school on Tuesday to the Gladstone ski park, where he will remain for three days.

Nettlow Of Detroit Takes Amber's Spot

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Manager Al Weill said today his welterweight, Al Nettlow of Detroit, would take Lou Amber's place against Eddie Connolly in a fight at Barre, Vt., Thursday.

Ambers was forced to step out of the bout yesterday when physicians examined his swollen foot and ordered him to remain out of action for at least ten days.

Burman Plans Punch Cocktail For Louis

BY SID FEDER

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Red Burman is planning to mix a little of Jack Dempsey's hook to the body with some of Max Schmeling's overhand right to the chin as the cocktail he hopes Joe Louis can't handle in their heavyweight title tussle Friday night.

He revealed this much of his plans today for his Madison Square Garden get-together with Louis. But even the Dempsey-Schmeling ingredients couldn't change the minds of all but Red's very best friends that no matter what the potion, it can only mean a bad headache for the Baltimore belter.

Red's trainers, Eddie Ross and Hymie Blaustein, pointed out that he half-crouches and weaves in a manner reminiscent of Dempsey. Red picked up some of this style as protege and chauffeur for the old Manassa Mauler in the last few years.

With that much in his repertoire, his handlers explained, he figured it would be a good idea to toss in a little of what Schmeling meant when he said, "I zee zomezing" shortly before Der Moxie's first fling at the Bomber back in '36. What Schmeling "eed" that time was that Joe dropped his left shoulder after delivering a jab, and was wide open for a right hand wallop on the "whiskers." However, that was Schmeling's very fine right hand, and this is Burman.

"Sure, I'm training with that in view," Red said at his Summit, N. J., training camp today. "After all, there must be some way to beat Louis, and if I haven't found the way, suppose you tell me something better than the Dempsey-Schmeling technique.

"Jack was a pretty fair left-hooker, wasn't he? And Schmeling had a right that wasn't a love pat, didn't he? And no one has worked on Joe's body yet, so why can't I try it. I'm convinced I'm going to be heavyweight champion of the world by midnight Friday."

Red's point of view wasn't quite shared by the betting commissioners in the West 49th street odds-making salons. If you thought Red would be around to hear the bell for the eighth, you could get three dollars for every one you put up. As for the ultimate results of the party—well, no one was even talking about that.

BOARD HEARS TRENARY CASE

Coaches, Referee Testify Before Board of Inquiry At Escanaba

A three-man board of inquiry heard testimony at Escanaba high school last night as to whether Trenary high school shall be recertified for interscholastic competition under rules of the Michigan High School Athletic association. Decision was withheld.

Testifying as to happenings in a scheduled game between Trenary and Cooks the night of January 17, when Trenary players left the floor in the second quarter and did not return were Langsford Collins, Trenary coach; A. O. Baker, Cooks coach, and Ken Gunderman of Manistique, referee.

Leo McDonald, Gwinn schools superintendent, and Kenneth W. Schulze, Alpha superintendent, members of the state athletic commission, and Joseph Gucky, Harris superintendent, selected by these two, formed the board of inquiry.

The board will make recommendations to C. E. Forsythe, state director of athletics, who will announce final decision as to disposal of the case.

Collins told the board that the weather was stormy and the hour was late and that he had to get his players back home so he called them out of the game.

Baker said there was no hard feeling between either coaches or the schools and asked that no action be taken against Trenary, which is under temporary suspension from inter-school competition.

Gunderman said he was puzzled when the Trenary team left the floor before the end of the half and that he had not been informed the game was being called.

Hermansville

Bowling Notes

Hermansville, Mich. — In the three bowling league the same three teams are still leading their respective leagues. In the major loop the Orientals are in first, with Standard Service leading the minor league, and the women's league has turned into a runaway for the Royal team.

Felix Lardonoit of Norway had high single game in the major circuit with a 243 count, while Ole Wilfong again broke into the high weekly totals with 612 series. In the team performances the Joe's team had high single game of 927 and high three game total of 2,648.

Mildred Bengs of the Lab team had high single game in the ladies loop with 167, while Margaret Raiche had high three game total of 432. The Royal team had high single game of 681, and high three games series with a 2020 count.

In the men's minor loop Edward Upland's 244 was high while his team mate Alger Saxe had high three games with 596. Their team, the Bank had high three game total of 2,505, while they also had high single game with 911.

The annual meeting of the Hermansville Community Federal Credit Union was held Monday evening at the high school. Mr. Kramer of Lloyd Manufacturing company gave a talk after which refreshments were served.

Edward Berg is able to be out again after being confined to his home by the flu.

The following people from Norway participated in the mixed doubles tournament last week: Stella Wgonik, Louis Van Wolveveace, Marcella Van Wolveveace, Helen Juliani, Bob Canovera, Helen Weston, Noel Giesen, Dr. Johnson, J. Juliani, Walter Lafiniere, Phil Bitel, Minnie Olsen, Joe Arnaldi, Hugo Hendrickson, Marion Sunile, Joe Hobusel, Richard Zadra, Helen Larsen, Miles Einnegan, Louis Turini, Dorothy Petdrotti, Janice VenDerHeyden, Irene Smith, Muriel Bergstrom and Geraldine Bitel.

The winners of the first five places in the tournament were Lucille Trombley of Nadeau, Norman Knutsen of Gladstone, first; Stella Wgonick and Louis Van Wolveveace of Norway, second; Queenie Doran of Hermansville and Edward Nyland of Daggett, third; Helen Juliani and Robert Canovera of Norway, fourth; and Marcella Van Wolveveace of Norway and Joe Machalk of Hermansville, fifth.

CCC Champions Picked At Soo To Fight Here

Marvin Beaudry and Bud Rossi Among Boys Who Won Titles

Soo, Mich., Jan. 27—Golden Glove elimination bouts sponsored for CCC enrollees in the Upper Peninsula were climaxed Saturday night here as finalists put on a thrilling show to earn their trip to the Escanaba golden glove tournament being held February 3 and 4.

The Fort Brady tournament began Friday night, at which time seventeen bouts, three rounds each, gave the fight fans a full evening's entertainment. Six of the seventeen bouts on that card ended in knockouts, and the remaining decision results were closely fought matches.

The tournament continued Saturday afternoon, at which time the remainder of the eliminations were run off. Each of the sixty contestants fought one or more times, and some of the finalists, who fought again Saturday night, had already defeated two or three challengers during the two-day tournament.

Of the eight bouts scheduled Saturday night two resulted in knockouts, five were won by closely fought decisions, and one taken by forfeit.

Both the winners and the runners-up in the tournament will be given a chance to compete in the Escanaba tournament, in either open or novice devisions. Winners of Saturday night's card were presented with satin boxing trunks.

The golden glove elimination tournament was sponsored by the Fort Brady CCC District Commander, Major Frank LaRue, and run off under the direction and supervision of Lieut. F. M. Marshek, district athletic officer. All bouts were refereed by Jack Douglas of Sault Ste. Marie.

Results of the finals of the two-day tournament are as follows:

Albert Kaiser, Camp Bonifas, whose home town is Ironwood, weight 167½ pounds, defeated John Winters, Camp Mackinac, 164 pound Detroit boy, by knockout.

Edward Wreige, Camp Strongs, at 156 pounds, enrolled from Saginaw, took decision from John Drombroski, Camp Cooks, 158-pounder, also from Saginaw.

Fred Nelson, Camp Germfask, at 148 pounds, who hails from Manistique, won decision over Walter Jarley, 144-pound Norway, Michigan, boy enrolled at Camp Escanaba.

Bud Rossi, Camp Bewabic, 123-pounder whose home is Iron Mountain, won the featherweight crown by forfeit from Leonara Rucinski, also from Camp Bewabic.

Donald Montgomery, 117 pound Camp Fox enrollee whose home town is Mt. Clemens, won a closely fought decision from Incar Perez, 120 pound Camp Cooks boy who hails from Merrill, Michigan.

Norman Harris, Camp Fox, 17 year old 114-pound Detroit boy, won the flyweight division championship by taking decision from Harold Mathews, Camp Mackinac, same age and from the same home town.

Former Champion Gibbons Will Wed

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Jan. 28 (AP)—Application of Thomas Gibbons, 49, of St. Paul, the former lightweight boxing champion, and Mrs. Josephine Black, 50, Chippewa Falls widow, for a marriage license was disclosed at the county clerk's office here today.

Mrs. Black is the mother of three children. It was reported the marriage would take place about Feb. 15.

RETURN MATCH BOOKED

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs announced today that welterweights Al Nettlow and young Kid McCoy, both of Detroit, would box a ten-round return bout March 14 in the Detroit Olympia. McCoy won a close decision over Nettlow there in December.

St. Joe Entertains St. Paul Here This Evening

BARK RIVER IN PRELIMINARY

Classy Negaunee Outfit Present Formidable Competition

Basketball fans of Escanaba will be treated to a double-header here this evening at the Bonifas gym when St. Joseph varsity entertains St. Paul of Negaunee and the Parochial reserves meet Bark River high school.

The first game will start at 7 o'clock, followed by the main game.

Coach Carl Kant and his cagers know they will have their hands full in the feature attraction, St. Paul having one of its best teams in history. It has been a consistent winner all year, recently turning tables on the Baraga quintet of Marquette.

An indication of the comparative strength of the two teams may be gleaned from the fact that they both played Rock. St. Joseph nosed out the Little Giants, 25-23 while St. Paul beat them, 27-21.

The Negaunee crew is led by three veterans, Torreano, Taylor and Marcotte, high scorers. Marta and Del Angelo take care of the defensive work for Coach Earl Messner's boys. In reserve will be Bertucci, Pallini, St. Onge, Benaglio and Fezette.

Changes Lineup

Coach Carl Kant has made several shifts in lineup, dropping Jim Baker from the squad and changing others around. Although it is not definite, is is probably he will start St. Cyr and Villeneuve at forwards, Hirn at center and Van Enkevort and Young at guards. In reserve will be Walker, Joran, Kleiman, Feldhausen and others.

It is expected that a large crowd from Bark River will be present to see their team in the preliminary. As an added incentive to them, they will see in action two former Bark River high school stars, Kleiman and Van Enkevort, who are members of the Parochial varsity.

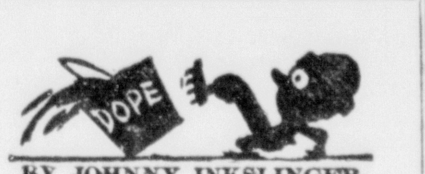
SPILLING the DOPE



BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

ARE YOU AMONG those people who are crabbing that Bay de Noc speed skaters didn't do so well at the meet at LaCrosse over the week end? . . . if so, just change your tune right away because the local skaters were competing against the absolute tops in the nation . . . they finished ninth with 40 points . . . ordinarily, ninth wouldn't be so much but it gains significance when you consider that other teams ahead of it included Minneapolis, Chicago, St. Paul, Cleveland, Milwaukee, LaCrosse and others . . . Escanaba did better than Detroit, Alpena, Saginaw, Madison and other larger cities . . . Bob Heckenback of Chicago, who ran off with the local meet, was able to take only one third place, so tough was the competition . . . the Bay de Noc club, under the leadership of Al Ness, has had another good season and has done a splendid job of being good will ambassadors for Escanaba . . . they deserve a rising vote of thanks.

Most of us should cultivate our brain instead of our brayin'.

WHEN THE FIRE destroyed the bowling alleys at Marquette a few days ago, the first bowling ball thrown out of the burning building was that of Gump Olson, former Escanaban who rolled the first perfect game in U. P. Bowling association history here last year . . . very thoughtful of the boys . . . members of the Escanaba Hawks hockey team are still chuckling as a result of their game at Marinette last week . . . between periods, several Marinette skaters put on an exhibition of fancy skating to the tune of much fanfare . . . a little later Jon Flanagan, Clem's boy, got out in his hockey outfit and put on a show of his own that just about tore the place down . . . if you haven't seen Jonny perform, you've missed something . . . he is really clever.

GOLDEN GLOVES tourney sponsors always have been careful in the selection of officials to handle the big boxing event . . . the announcement this morning of officials named for this year's event should be received with unanimous approval throughout the peninsula . . . the men named have been highly recommended by boxing fans and experts throughout the peninsula as well as by officials of the state board of control . . . in securing its officials, the committee has adhered to a strict policy of impartiality toward fighters of the peninsula . . . fighters will not be able to protest Escanaba fighters were favored by local officials because the referee, the inspector and the two judges are all from out of the city.

Eskymo Star May Be Out Of Game With Soo

Coach Jim Rouman is always loathe to send out any "bear stories" about his cagers before tough games but he frankly is a bit worried this week because his star sparkplug, junior Ed Gauthier, has been confined to his home with an attack of the flu.

It is not believed that Gauthier is seriously ill and will be used if in condition. If he returns to school today, he undoubtedly will be able to play—and Rouman is hoping for it. However, Rouman indicated last night that he would not jeopardize Gauthier's health in spite of lessening of chances of victory over the husky Soo team by his loss.

If Gauthier is unable to play, the mantle will fall on the shoulders of a midget sophomore, Francis (The Kid) Pryal, who has fitted very well into the Eskymo machine this year. Pryal will be paired at forward with Donnie Pfotenhauer, with Shomin at center and McDonald and Peterson guards. Rouman said last night there is a possibility that two reserves, Bobby Anderson and Bob Pfotenhauer, may be moved up to the varsity squad to replace two upper classmen, who have failed to produce.

The Eskymos have been working this week on trying to penetrate a zone defense, which the Soo uses. The Soo team, coached by Herman Crane, is composed of a very tall crew of boys, who blanket the floor with a zone defense. Early in the week, the Eskymos were pretty much at a loss as to how to handle the zone but last night they showed a lot of improvement.

Coach Rouman said last night that he is pleased at the attitude of the whole squad, feeling that the boys are taking their past victories lightly and their future games seriously.

Powers Twins Beat Herb's Five, 36-29

Powers, Mich., Jan. 28 — The Powers-Spalding Twins independent basketball team defeated Herb's of Rock, 36-29, here Sunday afternoon.

Smith and Garis Fleetwood led the local attack while Francis trombly of Rock was high point man with 12 markers.

Teams wishing games with the Twins should write to Francis LeDuc, Spalding.

CAGER GOOD PUNTER

Detroit, Mich.—Charles Adams, first-string pivot man on the University of Detroit basketball team, can boot a football better than a lot of the boys on the Titan grid squad. Adams is the intramural punting champion, winning the honor from a field that included the best kickers in the intramural sports program. Adams is too light for varsity football, but there were a lot of times last fall when the Titans could have used one of his deluxe 70-yard punts.

RAPID DEFEATS POWERS, 23-16

Comes From Behind In Second Half to Cop Thriller

Rapid River, Mich., Jan. 28—Spotting their rivals a 12-5 lead in the first half, a scrappy Rapid River high school basketball team came back in the second half of an interesting game here tonight to defeat Powers by a score of 23-16.

The game was pretty much of a Powers thing in the first half as the visitors, paced by D. and W. Revard, jumped off to an 8-2 lead in the first quarter. Rapid had many short shots but failed to click on a single one. In the second period, Rapid slowed down the visitors but still were behind at half time.

Coach Ken Hoyer's boys came out in the second canto with a new line of attack and swept Powers off their feet, scoring eight points in the third frame and topping it off with a 10 point burst in the final quarter. Meanwhile, Powers, stripped of its two aces, D. Rivard and S. Perry, on fouls, folded up on offense, getting only two points in each of the two last quarters.

In the preliminary, Rapid River won over the Powers reserves, 20-15. Summary:

Bigger Masquerade Party To Highlight Eskymo Ice Frolics

A bigger and better masquerade skating party, which is a feature of the annual Eskymo Frolics, will be held at the indoor rink, Sunday, February 16, beginning at 7:30 p. m.

The committee in charge is headed by Mrs. Zania Rivers and includes Helen Gunkel, Margaret Klemmetsen, Jewell Manthey, Margaret Wilson, Ruth Breitenbach. As an added feature, there will be square dancing in costume for those who do not care to skate. Prizes will be awarded for costumes both in the skating and in the dance groups. As a special inducement for people to come in costume, a reduced admission price has been made for them.

MATERIAL FOR COSTUMES

A meeting of all the mothers having children in the Eskymo frolic show, to be held February 13th, will be held at the city recreation center, South 14th street and Third avenue, today beginning at 4 p. m. Material for all costumes to be made will be at the center and patterns will be available so that the material may be cut and later sewed either at the center or at home by the mothers. The department of parks and recreation announced that no child would be kept out of the show because of the inability to buy costume material as they will be furnish, but, those not buying the material would not be permitted to keep the costume.

Today's Sport Parade

by

HENRY McLEMORE

United Press Staff Correspondent

Rancho Santa Fe, Cal., Jan. 28 (UP)—This concerns John Leonard Dodson, a golfing hillbilly from the Ozarks.

Two weeks ago he won the Oakland tournament and yesterday, paired with Ray Watson of Stanford, he came in first in the pro-amateur section of the Bing Crosby with 124, the lowest score ever registered in such an event.

Dodson, at 27, already is a legendary figure. Just as woodsmen spin tales of Paul Bunyan, so do golfers talk of the slim, always happy boy from the hills of Springfield, Mo.

He learned his golf as a member of Titantic Thompson's golf caravan. You remember Titantic. He belonged to the Arnold Rothstein clique—in fact, Titantic was invited by the New York county grand jury to tell what he knew, if anything, of the goings-on at the Manhattan party which ended with Rothstein getting a direct, and fatal, hit from a .44 bullet.

Past Posting

Dodson traveled with Titantic a year. At one time it was his business to wrap himself in gaudy bandages, ride around in a wheel chair, and pose as a very decrepit young man. The fact that Leonard had mastered the technique of playing golf while seated in a wheel chair—he could get around in 85 or thereabouts—didn't hurt Titantic's pocketbook. A challenge would be issued, some able-bodied duffer would accept it, and Dodson, getting the strokes that a "cripple" should have, would be rolled to the starting tee by his caddy and proceed to shoot a gross 85 and a net 70.

This was known to the trade as "past posting". Leonard became a master at it. So much a master, in fact, that he actually "past posted" the wise Titantic himself. It happened this way:

Leonard knew that Thompson would bet on anything. So, before leaving Thomasville, Ga., for Tallahassee, Fla., one day, Leonard called the manager of the Busy Bee cafe in Tallahassee and asked him to weigh all the waitresses in his shop, then call him back and give him the total. The manager, with a promise of a $50 fee, put the girls on the scales.

There were five of them and their total weight was 689 pounds.

When Thompson, Dodson and troupe hit Tallahassee, Dodson suggested a bit to eat at the Busy Bee.

Not On Level

"Lovely place," he told Titantic, "and the best food in Florida."

During the meal Dodson managed to bring up the subject of guessing the weights of strangers. Said he figured he was the best at the business. Titantic allowed as how he was good at that, too. With Dodson maneuvering the conversation, it was decided that everyone at the table would kick in a $1,000 with the kitty going to the man who guessed nearest to—you guessed it—the total weight of the five waitresses.

"Titantic never did think I was on the level when I guessed right to the pound," Leonard told me. "I didn't plan to come that close, but I had to, because titantic just missed it by a pound and I had to do my best to win."

Dodson bets all he has on himself in every tournament. He had his share of the prize money riding at 2 to 1 when he met Benny Hogan and Dutch Harrison in the Oak and playoff. Golfers still talk of the time at Charleston, when, after an opening round of 81, he bet $1,000 he would lead the field next day. He did with a score in the middle sixties.

Hunk Anderson Claims Gipp Greatest Back

BY CHARLES P. WARD

Detroit, Jan. 27——One of our favorite sports characters is Heartly Anderson, the old Notre Dame coach, whose chief vice is an incurable case of honesty in his dealings with sports writers. Hunk would tell the truth if it killed him, and it is sad to relate that sometimes it almost has, professionally speaking, of course. Which proves that this world still is a queer old place that contains more than its share of odd people.

HUNK ANDERSON

Whenever football men talk of line coaches the name of Anderson usually comes up, among the first, for Hunk is regarded as one of the best. As line coach he was one of Knute Rockne's standbys in the days of Notre Dame's greatest glory. Now he is serving as line coach for the Chicago Bears in the National Professional league. Two years ago he was the line coach for the Detroit Lions.

Still a Detroit resident and a seller of tool steels during the off season, Anderson engaged in a fanning bee the other night. In the course of same he was asked to name the best lineman he had ever seen. He hedged.

"Gee," he said, "I've seen a lot of good linemen in my time. Adam Walsh and Bud Boeringer were great centers. That Eddie Healy, of Dartmouth, was a fine tackle. He played beside me on the Bears. There were other great men, so many in fact that it is hard to name one as the best. But the fellow that impressed me most was that little Bert Metzger, who was known as Notre Dame's watch-charm guard back in 1929 and 1930."

Anderson said that the things that impressed him about Metzger were his weight, his courage and his all-around ability as a guard.

"That little guy weighed only about 150 pounds at his best," said Hunk, "but he could handle the best of them. And how he fought to build up his weight! He used to quit school once in a while and go back home to Chicago and live on milk and cream. When he put a few pounds on his frame he would be back."

Anderson said that Rockne was not impressed with some of the linemen Notre Dame came up with in 1929. That is he was not impressed the first time he saw them. That crowd eventually turned out some very good linemen including the All-America center, Tommy Yarr.

"Rock was going up to the Mayo Clinic for treatment when he first looked at the linemen that year. You will recall he was ill around that time.

"'Pretty sad looking bunch, Heartly,' he said, but I said I thought they might turn out all right.

"Well, we got going and I took a liking to this little guy and when Rock returned he said the squad looked pretty good. He asked me who my best guards were and when I named Metzger as one he shook his head and said he was too small.

Metzger Comes Through

"Rock wouldn't use Metzger until the Carnegie Tech game that year. He wanted to try him but he hesitated. We had trouble in the Carnegie game, and when Rock looked at me I suggested that he put in little Metzger. I told him to warn the other fellows to back him up in the first two or three plays because Carnegie, noting his size, was certain to send John Karcis crashing at his position. Metzger, of course, had been taught how to shift to protect himself.

"Sure enough, Carnegie started to pound Metzger as soon as he entered the game. The little guy submarined and came up with a leg. One or two more plays convinced Carnegie that Metzger was a pretty tough customer despite his lack of size and the Plaid didn't bother him much for the remainder of the afternoon.

Asked who was the best back he had ever seen, Anderson answered quickly and firmly, "George Gipp." His opinion might have been swayed a little by loyalty, for it was Gipp who took Hunk down from Calumet to Notre Dame.

"Gipp was older than the other boys when he was at school," Anderson recalled. "I think he was about 26. He was more mature mentally and physically. And he was a great football player.

"The thing that distinguished Gipp from most backs in my mind was his perception," he said. "He could see the whole playing field. He always managed to pick the pass receiver who was least well covered."

Gipp was a player who made up plays as he went along, Hunk said.

"I remember once that he told an end to hit an opponent for two counts, then slipp off to the side and go down the field," Anderson declared. "'I'll hit you with the ball,' he said. The end did as he was told and Gipp hit him with the ball. 'We'll have to give that one a number next week, Heartly,' Rock said to me."

Gipp Also a Star in Baseball

Gipp was as good a baseball player as he was a football player, Anderson said. It was as a ball player that he went to Notre Dame. When he died he was considering offers from both the White Sox and the Cubs.

"But don't believe that story about his not being able to play football before he went to Notre Dame," Anderson said. "He was one of the best in our town, even if he did practice only on Friday nights and play Saturdays. He didn't have to practice."

Once regarded as one of the most unfortunate of coaches, Anderson now is situated in a position which seems to have a degree of permanency about it. He gained his reputation for bad luck by his record after Rockne's death. When he was named Rockne's successor at Notre Dame he was given a job that almost nobody could fill at that time.

He went to North Carolina State and lost his job because of a political squabble. From there he went to Michigan as line coach and lost out in the row that led to the resignation of Harry Kipke. After a tour of duty at Cincinnati, he left to become line coach of the Lions and lost out in the row that caused the ousting of Gus Henderson. It looked as if Hunk was to spend his life dodging the hoodoo but he gave it the stiff arm when he joined the ranks of the Bears. And that's all right with him.

GRIDDERS LIKE HANDBALL

Detroit, Mich.—Football players dominated the student handball tournament at the University of Detroit this year. Jack McDermott, halfback, defeated Vincent Banonis, center and captain-elect, in the Class A finals. Art Link, quarterback, outswatted Paul McLaughlin, halfback, in the Class B championship test. McDermott is the third player to win the Class A title twice in the 11-year history of the event. Others were Bill O Neill, 1932 and 1933, and Alex Chesney, 1937 and 1939. O'Neill and Chesney were gridders, too.

WON'T LOSE CAPT.

Detroit, Mich. — Gus Dorais, head football coach at the University of Detroit, doesn't have to worry about losing his grid captain in the draft. Vincent Banonis, captain-elect of the U. of D. eleven, is one of the youngest college football leaders in the country. The husky center is only 19 years old, and will not be 20 until April 9. Being a boy wonder is no novelty for the Red and White chieftan. At 15 he was named to the all-city high school football team in Detroit. At 16 he was selected on the prep's all-state eleven.

LOUIS GREAT DRAWING CARD

Fights Well Attended In Spite Of Weakness Of Opposition

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Jan. 28—Joe Louis is scheduled to autograph Red Burman next Friday night and present him to someone in the third row ringside, and about the best buildup for the bout that has been uncovered so far is the fact that it is Louis' 13th title defense.

The idea naturally is to overcome any furtive belief that the contest can have but one ending by a broad hint that Louis not only will be fighting Burman but will be opposed by a jinx which will slug him out of the title, and you folks would like to be there when such an upset occurs, wouldn't you?

It's a rather weak buildup, almost as weak as Burman's routine statement he will knock Joe kicking, and Jack Dempsey's also routine plus for the redhead, but if it lures even a few of the superstitious customers it will serve its purpose.

Joe Not Necessary

For with no buildup whatsoever outside of a cold announcement that Joe Louis will fight someone on such-and-such a date enough fans will turn up to keep the show from being a total financial loss. The opponent might be any Joe Brittlechin or a major in the ring's own tank corps, but it would make no difference.

It's an unmistakeable tribute to Louis' own drawing power. The big guy has some intangible something no other present ringman has. It isn't just his punching power. Pat Comiskey can punch. It isn't his cleverness. Billy Conn is more clever.

It's something that makes a chill sprint up and down the spine from the moment he climbs through the ropes; that brings a vague feeling of impending disaster. His impressive face, his casual, robot-like movements create the impression of something not quite human, and it's not hard to summon up a little sympathy for the Paychecks and the others whose legs turned to water the moment they faced him. You get that feeling of awe just watching him.

Always Uncertainty

Added to this indefinable lure is the fact that each bout raises its own questions. There is the uncertainty as to whether some lightly-considered opponent like Arturo Godoy or Bob Pastor will stay the limit, or some highly-regarded warrior like Max Schmeling will go out in less than a round.

That uncertainty alone is enough to attract a good gate to any Louis fight, and the Burman bout is no exception. Nobody doubts Burman's courage, or his confidence in his ability to sink the dark destroyer.

That courage and confidence, combined with a bobbing style which has caused Louis the most trouble, makes the Friday bout all the more unpredictable. Louis naturally is a prohibitive favorite, but it's anybody's guess as to how long Burman will last. If a fighter like Al McCoy can stay about five rounds, Burman should, with exercise of due caution, stay longer.

At any rate, we have a hunch that the only way No. 13 would help Burman would be if there were 12 more men in the ring, all fighting on his side.

Arlene Bohnenkamp Throws 606 Game

Miss Arlene Bohnenkamp, attractive local store cashier, spilled 606 pins in the women's league match Monday night at the Arcade alleys, a feat not often performed by women bowlers.

Miss Bohnenkamp, who resides at 315 North 13th street, hit 204, 224 and 178 to get her total of 606 pins.

Approximately 80 per cent of all truck trips are less than 20 miles in length.

70,000 RECORDS TO BE INDEXED

County WPA Project to Employ Six Men for Six Months

Making a card index of 70,000 records at the county clerk's office has been started by a WPA crew of six men who don't expect to be done for at least six months.

They will make a separate card for each of the 35,000 birth, 20,000 death and 14,466 marriage license records that have been piled up in books in the clerk's vault since 1862, date of the first marriage license issued here.

Alphabetical Style

And they won't have an easy time of it. For some of the older records are quite dim and the penmanship of some of the older county clerks who hadn't even dreamed of typewriters is more ornate than legible.

The job is a major step in a new system being instituted by County Clerk P. A. LeClaire, which will put all such records in card index style and eliminate the age-old method of longhand entries in bulky "libres", in which even the name is old fashioned.

These libres required longhand entries up to very recently because the pages could not be taken out and replaced to permit typewritten records. Mr. LeClaire has a fairly good script, of course, but then some of the earlier clerks probably thought they did, too.

The libre records were purely chronological. The new records will be alphabetical and much more handy for reference. To locate an old birth record now, the date or approximate date of the birth must be known and then it's a matter of patience and good eyesight to find it in one of the books.

First Marriage License

Each marriage license bears a number, so the exact number of such issues is known. The other figures are estimates on the basis of the size of the books.

Only marriage license records date back to 1862. The others go back to 1867.

Marriage certificate No. 1 was issued on July 26, 1862, to a man whose name looks on the record to have been Peter Prepfye, 24, of Nahma, who married Emeline Roberts, 16, of the same place in the presence of Franklin B. Lowell and James Morgan, with I. N. Hiller, justice of the peace, officiating.

The last marriage license application, No. C-1,501 (which is the 14,466th license request, was recorded Saturday for Andrew Hytinen of Trenary and Elsi Maki of Rapid River.

Newberry

Primary Election In Luce County Set For February 17

Newberry—Candidates for various township offices and for circuit judge of this district will be nominated at the general primary election to be held Monday, February 17, according to announcements by county clerk, John Turnbull. As there is no opposition on the non-partisan ballot the primary election will not include the office of circuit court judge.

Herbert W. Runnels, of Sault Ste. Marie, incumbant, is the only candidate who has filed for the circuit judge nomination.

Other township officers included on the ballot will be supervisors, clerks and treasurers of Columbus, Lakefield, McMillan and Pentland township.

Newberry Benefit Minstrel Show Will Be Held Thursday

Newberry — A minstrel show will be presented on Thursday, January 30, at the Newberry high school gynasium for the benefit of the Newberry Boy Scouts.

The entertainment sponsored by the Newberry Lions and the Newberry Sportsmen's club, has been in rehearsed for several months.

For rousing chorus work, snappy comedy lines, and delightful old time melodies, the program promises to be excellent. The music is full of spice and ginger, with rythms varying from ragtime to waltz-time. A ten-piece orchestra under the direction of C. J. Bender is a special feature of the show. The cast will include Harry Surrell, D. C. Maltby, Arvid Talcott, Con Smith, Mark Perry, Jack Mahar, and "Red" Erickson.

CYO REGIONAL RALLY

Newberry—At a regional rally of the CYO held in Sault Ste. Marie on Sunday, a Professor Quiz program was conducted in the Baraga Gymnasium by Father Geo. LaForest, formerly of Flat Rock, now of St. Ignace. Four hundred attended the rally. Teams representing the nearby communities participated in the Religious Contest sponsored by the Soo parishes. Newberry's St. Gregory parish was represented by Jack Cavanaugh, Carl Minor, Marcella Villemure and Marcella Scott. Featured on the banquet program were addresses by City Attorney James Fenlon, Youth Director William Piedmont, Rev. Jos. Seifert, of the Soo, and Rev. Robert Cordy of Marquette.

No More Job Leniency, New Draft Board Rule

Eight More Ready for Induction; New Quota Is 22 Men

(1) Eight more men were certified yesterday in physical examinations for examination by the Delta county draft induction board. Twenty one were examined. Seven were placed in class 1-B for call only in case of an emergency and six failed.

(2) A new quota of 22 men for the February 14 and 15 induction was tentatively set for Delta county on instructions to the local draft board from state offices yesterday. Five others will be subject to induction to replace five who have failed previous induction tests and two more will be taken because two men inducted from here were registered in other areas. This makes a total of 29 for February.

No More Leniency

(3) Six more classification appeals have been referred through the draft board to M. Robert Deo, appeals officer, following a draft board meeting Monday. Employment and dependency are vited as reasons in most appeal cases.

(4) Monday's meeting marked the beginning of a new policy of the board with regard to classifications. In that meeting and in future meetings all able bodied men eligible for class 1-A will be so classified, without regard to employment. Heretofore the board has been lenient to employed men, deferring them only because they were employed.

(5) A reclassification of men deferred formerly because they were employed will be made during February and these men will be eligible to call in the sequence of their draft order numbers, ahead of employed men now being classed in 1-A. In other words, some who have missed call to physical examinations may now expect to get them, depending on their numbers. Only a few in work definitely connected with national defense will be excluded from 1-A providing they are otherwise eligible.

Yesterday's addition to the induction eligibility list brought the number available to more than 30.

The draft board emphasized that questionnaires should be filled in very carefully and completely. In a few instances failure to give details has caused trouble that could have been avoided, members said.

The board also urged more volunteers and promised that they will be given every preference possible, including permission to enter a flying cadets corps or otherwise choose the service they prefer.

Get Questionnaires

CITY MANAGER TALKS TO CLUB

Commerce Association Launches Plans for 1941 Activities

Addressing members of the Escanaba Commerce Association last night at their first banquet meeting since their organization, City Manager George E. Bean briefly outlined some of the problems the community faces and, while welcoming the new club, expressed the hope that the organization would become an important factor in finding solutions to the problems.

The association members also heard Rev. Karl Hammar, president of the Escanaba Ski club, who urged the cooperation of the association in promoting Escanaba's winter sports project at Danforth and in aiding the work of the Wolverine Conservation club in its efforts to develop similar local sporting possibilities.

At the business meeting following the banquet at which about 70 members were present, definite arrangements for Commerce Association meetings on every other Tuesday were made.

The Commerce Association voted almost unanimously for a proposal, strongly urged by Tom Quinn, to begin plans for a huge Fourth of July celebration here this year. A committee will be appointed today by association President John Boyle to start work on the project.

The association, seeking an appropriate, four-word slogan or catch-word which will identify their club and its aims of promoting civic educational, industrial and cultural activities, is sponsoring a contest and offering a cash award for the best slogan submitted. Details may be had from association Secretary Robert E. LeMire or from Roy Dawson. The contest closes February 10.

A number of other proposals were discussed but no action was taken. A more comprehensive program of activities for the year is expected to be outlined at the next meeting.

DIPPERS OPPOSE SMELT CHANGES

Wolverines Plan Study of Beaver-Otter Problems

Meeting in the city hall on Tuesday evening, the Wolverine Conservation association went on record by an overwhelming vote to oppose any change in the regulations that govern the taking of smelt during the spring spawning runs. The action followed a lengthy discussion of the move by commercial interests that would curtail the activities of the dippers.

In the discussion the sportsmen heard members of the commercial fishing industry state their case and officers of the department of conservation who were called upon to clarify the laws relating to commercial operations and the dipping as well as a number of those who are interested in the dipping of the fish. Action favoring continuation of present dipping rules came as a result of the membership's agreement with the view that the smelt are not in danger of serious depletion and that the spring dipping is regarded as one of the stimulants of the demand for the smelt in all seasons of the year.

President H. L. Holderman presided during the greater portion of the meeting's discussions and Elmer Swanson, vice-president, handled the meeting during the voting. Swanson also announced committee appointments. Committees include a beaver study committee composed of Al Pearson, Gust Soderberg, Rev. Karl Hammar, Roy G. Olson and Mel Roberts; a legislative committee whose members are Ed McDonough, Harry Gaufin, Gust Soderberg, Rev. Karl Hammar and Victor Powers. A bond committee is to be headed by Al Pearson who will name his committee members later.

Association members approved motions favoring legislation to assure three week-ends during the deer season, requiring that guns carried in automobiles be taken down or carried in cases.

Officers were empowered to call a meeting in February to elect officers for the new year. An effort will also be made to arrange a meeting at such time as F. A. Westerman, chief of the fish and fisheries division of the conservation department, may be in this vicinity to discuss the matter of an effort now being made to close Little Bay de Noc to all forms of net fishing.

Thorsen Unopposed For Re-election On Supervisors Board

Ole J. Thorsen, chairman of the Delta county board of supervisors for the last two years, has filed for re-election, unopposed, along with the rest of the township ticket in Wells township last night, final filing date.

Others on the ticket are: Clerk, Jacob Groos; treasurer, P. S. Clark; member of board of review, Thomas A. Bedard, and justice of the peace, Emil Moser.

Other township filings were not available.

Laytonen Hearing Delayed To June

Munising, Jan. 28—The trial of Mrs. Hilma Laytonen and her son, Charles, on first degree murder, was postponed until the June term or circuit court this morning by Judge Herbert W. Runnels after the pair appeared in court without an attorney. The mother and her son have been held in the Alger county jail since August, 1940, on the charge. Lee Garvin of Marquette, who had studied the case, notified county authorities yesterday that he would not defend the Laytonens since they had not paid him a retainer. Judge Runnels ordered them to have an attorney by the June term of circuit court, the next jury term, saying that his investigation had disclosed that they had sufficient funds to hire one. Bonds of $5,000 each on the two have not been furnished.

Trial of the case of Edward Joel, charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, was started this morning. Since the case requires the services of an interpreter, it is expected that it will occupy several days of the court term.

Glover C. North, 53, and his son, Harold D. North, 17, charged with incest, and Alfred R. Johnson and Curtis Rowley, charged with breaking and entering in the night time, pleaded guilty to the charges. The four will be sentenced by Judge Runnels. The case of Leo Luedeman, charged with breaking and entering in the day time, was dismissed. Further investigation will be made in the case, R. E. O'Brien, county prosecuting attorney, said.

MRS. BROWN HONORED

Munising, Jan. 28—Mrs. O. E. Brown was honored at the meeting of the Elwell club last Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clara Light, West Munising avenue. A one o'clock luncheon was served by the hostess and the afternoon was spent in playing contract bridge. Mrs. Laura Adams was high, Mrs. Brown was second and Mrs. R. W. Jackson had low score. The group presented Mrs. Brown with a gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown left today for Minneapolis. From there they wil go to Rock Island, Ill., to visit for a short time and then will spend several months vacationing in St. Petersburg, Florida.

MUNISING BRIEFS

The Thursday Afternoon Reading club will meet at the home of Mrs. J. N. Wallace tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Helen Hanson has moved to an apartment in the Marks building on Elm avenue.

J. A. Vizena, state land examiner, left Sunday for Manistique where he will spend the week on business.

Mrs. W. Douglas McIntosh will be hostess to St. John's Guild this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in her home, Lynn street.

Members Of School Boards Will Hear M. E. A. Field Man

Wesley Thomas of the Michigan Education association field research staff, will address an annual meeting of the Schoolcraft-Delta-Menominee county association of school board members in Escanaba Junior high school at 8 o'clock tonight, C. P. Titus, county school commissioner, announced last night.

He will give a summary of the M. E. A. legislative program now being considered by Lansing legislators.

Bernard Hamilton, of the Perkins school board, president of the Delta county association of school board members, will be in charge of the meeting. The association includes 70 members in Delta county, 30 in Schoolcraft and 70 in Menominee.
